JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla., March 30.—Eddie Stinson and George Haldeman descended on the Jacksonville Beach here at 1:14 o'clock after setting a new world's record for sustained flight.

The fliers took the air at 7:37 a. m., Wednesday and officially established a new record at 13 seconds past 1 o'clock, Eastern Standard time, today. The old time of 52 hours and 23 minutes was held by German fliers.

The fliers had only five gallons of gas left in their tanks when they descended. They showed they had broken the old record by one hour and 14 minutes, and had remained aloft 53 hours and 37 minutes.

CHEERED BY CROWD

The new record was officially set when the clock in the hands of Odis Palmer, timer for the National Aeronautical Association, recorded 1:00:13.

Swinging gracefully down from an altitude of 1,500 feet, the pilots of the big red and black Stinson-Detroiter acknowledged the cheers of the huge crowd packed on the boardwalk.

The plane then nosed upwards again, circled about a few times, but in the face of a stiff westerly wind the pilots descended at 1:14 p. m. Both climbed out of the plane, grinning happily.

"We feel fine," they said immediately after they had landed and were hugged and kissed by their wives, and slapped on the back by those friends who managed to break through the ropes.

"However, we are very tired," said Stinson.

"The plane behaved beautifully and the motor never missed once," he added.

The fliers and their party immediately went to their hotel, where they will take a bath and go to bed.

The flight was made under the auspices of the Jacksonville Junior Chamber of Commerce, which offered a prize of $5,000 if the two fliers were successful.

The big Stinson-Detroiter took off Wednesday morning with Stinson at the controls. Despite the heavy load of 154 gallons of gasoline and 21 gallons of oil, the plane lifted easily and soon gained an altitude of 1,500 feet.

CHICKENS FOR FOOD

For food the fliers had taken with them four fried chickens, six lemons, six oranges, three quarts of milk, a dozen bread and butter sandwiches, four pickles, two gallons of water

Poor Tired Finance.
Ford's Easy Answer.
Accessible Solitude.
The Spartans Tried It.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

POOR Wall street brokers. Another 4,000,000-share day yesterday. Harassed financiers even plan a five-day week, "their work is too hard."

How finance would howl if men working in steel mills, subways, etc., demanded a five-day week.

THE Senate will ask Henry Ford how he can pay coal miners more than experienced mine owners pay, wages higher than the unions demand. Ford could answer "I have brains and a heart."

LINDBERGH, seeking rest from everlasting praise and to be let alone, simply flies away. Science confers the blessing of solitude. First the bicycle, next the automobile, now it's the flying machine that has made solitude accessible.

ONLY recently the Osservatore Romano, mouthpiece of the Vatican, spoke hopefully of an understanding between Mussolini's ruling party and the Pope. A sudden change puzzles Europe. Mussolini, in rather plain words, threatens to suppress Catholic organizations for the education of youth, saying the government must control and prepare the minds of future citizens.

The Spartans did that, taking children from their parents. Sparta did not last.

IT is not the present Pope's intentions evidently to accept Mussolini as a former Pope accepted Rienzi. A few years will show what chance one powerful man has against skillful Vatican diplomacy, built up through centuries.

ONE HUNDRED Congressmen indorse Mr. Hoover's candidacy. Fully half the 267 Republican representatives will join the Hoover committee of 1,000.

Senators are less friendly. So are some "big men" that occasionally buy Senate seats for deserving individuals. Mr. Hoover probably realizes that those big men with influence in the Senate will have a good deal to say in the Republican convention. Ask George Harvey.

MR. SMITH, iron manufacturer, of Milwaukee, is building 107,000 tons of electrically welded pipe to connect southern oil wells with northern markets.

President Kingsbury, of Standard Oil of California, has two Pittsburgh plants turning out 15,000 tons of pipe. The oil business has grown since the day when its best customer was the kerosene oil lamp.

HENRY FORD also cheers the steel business by placing heavy orders in Mahoning Valley steel mills for strips and sheets. He is a heavy buyer also of bars and cold finished steel. Evidently his production line is regaining speed.

WHEN you talk about humanity you are a bore. When you talk about money you are a brainy business man.

F. L. Hoffman, Prudential Insurance Company statistician, says an end of the death penalty, with quick trials and life imprisonment, would discourage murder, at present increasing all over the United States.

THE boys of Yale, 144 to 114, decide that prohibition has done Yale College more harm than good.

If the young gentlemen would vote unanimously to drink no bootleg liquor, prohibition couldn't do Yale any harm.

SWEET are the uses of adversity, and useful in an approaching election.

By 79 to 0 the Senate passes the Mississippi flood control bill, involving $325,000,000. Republicans want to stay in. Democrats want to get in.

"WHITE AUSTRALIA" is the popular rallying cry. An American Negro jazz band has been deported by the House of Representatives of New South Wales. And Negroes are to be barred, as well as Chinese and other Asiatics.

ONE HUNDRED houses are damaged, 15 killed and 100 injured in a series of earthquakes between Venice and Triest. Airplanes are used for emergency relief.

AGREEMENT EVADERS SCORED

By MAX HENRICI,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 30.—"Not only the Pittsburgh Coal Company, but also the coal companies of Charles M. Schwab and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., broke contracts that were both legally and morally binding," declared Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, today, "when they abrogated their agreements with the United Mine Workers and reduced wages below the scale prescribed in those contracts."

The Schwab company to which Senator Wheeler referred is the Bethlehem Mines Corporation, and the Rockefeller concern is the Consolidation Coal Company.

ASSAILS SCHWAB COMPANY

"The case of the Schwab company," said Senator Wheeler, "was, if anything, more flagrant than that of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, because after it broke its group contract it proceeded to make other contracts with the miners individually."

Senators Frank R. Gooding of Idaho and Robert F. Wagner of New York, who, with Senator Wheeler, are members of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, investigating the coal strike, are known also to feel very strongly that the companies mentioned did a morally inexcusable thing in breaking the

UNION ASKS EXPOSE OF COSTS

By MAX HENRICI,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The question of the right of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee to compel coal operators to disclose their production costs was debated today at the inquiry into the coal strike by attorneys for the United Mine Workers and the Southern West Virginia operators.

Henry Warrum, chief counsel for the miners' union, answered the operators' contention that coal mining is not interstate commerce, and so not subject to the jurisdiction of the committee, by pointing out that the operators had taken precisely the opposite attitude, and had been sustained by the United States Supreme Court, when they obtained a federal injunction to restrain the union from attempting to establish locals in southern West Virginia.

Union Cites Case

The injunction was requested and granted on the ground that the union's activities would constitute interference with interstate commerce. Judge Schoonmaker, of the United States District Court at Pittsburgh, issued an injunction against the striking miners there, on the same ground, Warrum declared.

Former United States Senator A. O. Stanley, of Kentucky, an attorney for the operators, denied on constitutional grounds that the committee had the right to require the production of the operators' books, and even questioned the right of the Senate to compel the attendance of witnesses or to ask any questions. He said the Constitution conferred no such authority.

Adjourn to Thursday

Notwithstanding that 20 witnesses have been on hand for two weeks, awaiting an opportunity to testify, the committee decided at mid-day that because of the pressure of other business requiring its attention, it would adjourn, so far as the coal investigation was concerned, until next Thursday.

Warrum said all troubles in the coal industry today had been traced through the testimony so far taken to southern West Virginia, and that it was important that the commit-

"He sent me hunting lions while he stayed here and hunted women," complained Mrs. Esther Wilson, explorer and big game hunter, when she was arrested and confessed to shooting her husband, Dallett H. STUDENT DEAD, GIRL HURT IN CRASH

A Carnegie Tech student was killed, and his girl companion and two other school men were hurt, early today in an automobile crash that brought a tragic end to a bridge party in Carnegie.

Joseph Lutton Chaney, 22, of Washington, Pa., a sophomore in the School of Fine Arts, died in the Mercy Hospital at 7 a. m. His companion, Miss Hope Young, 20, of 32 Grant avenue, Bellevue, received a fracture of the collarbone and is under treatment at the home of Miss Mary Pascoe, 100 Midland avenue, Carnegie, where the party was held.

Robert Gordon, of 3521 Shadeland avenue, a part-time student at Tech, driver of the machine, and Robert M. Jordan, of 35 Shadeland avenue, a Tech student, were hurt slightly.

The group had left the Pascoe residence in a driving rain and in Idlewood avenue, near Bell avenue, the car skidded and crashed into a pole. Chaney was thrown to the street.

Chaney and Jordan were members of the Phi Gamma Delta, social fraternity, and Chaney was a member of the staff of the "Puppet," school humorous magazine. Chaney formerly attended Washington and Jefferson College. He was a son of George S. Chaney, county engineer of Washington county.

LIMA, O., March 30.—George Remus, erstwhile "king of bootleggers," who killed his wife and then convinced a jury that he was not guilty because of insanity, scored his final triumph today when the Court of Appeals ordered him released from the state asylum here where he has been confined as a result of the murder trial verdict.

Remus killed his wife, Imogene, in Cincinnati because, he said, she had been carrying on an affair with Franklin Dodge, former federal prohibition agent. Himself an attorney, Remus pleaded his own case before a Cincinnati jury which declared him "not guilty on the sole grounds of insanity."

Following a sanity hearing he was ordered committed to the state hospital at Lima. An application for a writ of habeas corpus was then entered in the Third District Court here based on the contention that the papers, committing Remus to

Endurance Flights

Associated Press.

The world record for sustained airplane flight has passed frequently from German, French and American hands since Edward Stinson and Lloyd Bertaud captured it in 1921 from the French.

A partial list of successes and noteworthy attempts follows:

Twenty-six hours, 19 minutes, 55 seconds—Set by Stinson and Bertaud (the latter lost his life in the Old Glory's attempt to span the Atlantic) at Mineola, N. Y., in December, 1921.

Thirty-seven hours, 59 minutes, 10 seconds—Made by French aviators Coupet and Drouhin, at Chartres, France, in July, 1924.

Forty-five hours, 11 minutes, 59 seconds—Made by French aviators Drouhin and Landry, at Chartres, in August, 1925.

Fifty-one hours, 11 minutes, 25 seconds—Set by Clarence D. Chamberlin and Bert Acosta, Mineola, April, 1927 (incidentally breaking American record of 36 hours, 4 minutes, 34 seconds made at Dayton, O., April, 1923, by Kelley and Macready.)

Fifty-two hours, 3 minutes, 11 seconds—Made by German aviators Johann Risticz and Cornelius Edzard at Dessau, Germany, July, 1927.

In January, 1928, Chamberlin and Roger Q. Williams exceeded by about 40 minutes the American record, but did not set a new one because a mark must be bettered by one hour.

O. Storm Isolates Towns

CLEVELAND, March 30, — (AP.) — One of the most severe sleet storms in recent years struck parts of Ohio last night and today, paralyzing telephone and telegraph communication, marooning automobiles, delaying transportation and causing general havoc.

The storm apparently centered in a triangle extending from Cleveland to Toledo and down to Lima.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company reported 500 poles down between Columbus and Lima. Contact was cut off in all directions. Several other cities also were isolated.

The Weather

Rain, changing to snow this afternoon or tonight; colder tonight; Saturday generally fair, with slowly rising temperature; lowest temperature tonight about 28 degrees.

DENTIST'S DIVORCE TRIAL ENDS IN STORM OF DENIALS

AIR SLAPS, FIGHT FOR GUN

The divorce trial of Dr. Harry K. Koontz, dentist, residing at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, against Martha L. Koontz, featured by charges and denials, counter charges and counter denials over a period of two days, was concluded in Judge H. H. Rowand's court this afternoon.

As the case neared its conclusion Mrs. Koontz was near collapse. She was reported to have fainted at lunch in a downtown restaurant and required the ministrations of a nurse. She had testified the greater part of the morning, and showed signs of great emotion when she left the stand.

F. G. Braden, Indianapolis, Ind., brother-in-law of Mrs. Koontz, the last witness called by the respondent, testified he talked to the Koontzes in October, 1925, and that Dr. Koontz admitted he was quick-tempered and had slapped his wife's face.

After the defense closed, Miss Alice Jeffries, office assistant to Dr. Koontz, testified Mrs. Koontz had never shown her bruises on the shoulder, which Mrs. Koontz had testified during the morning.

Dr. Koontz ended the case by denying that he had choked his wife.

There was no face-slapping at the Southern Club's charity ball at the Schenley, no effort made to shoot the doctor and no attack with a clothes hanger, the wife testified.

There was provocation for whatever action she was guilty of, Mrs. Koontz testified. She said her husband was continually finding fault, and had subjected her to abuse, which included choking and striking. She said she never accused him of infidelity.

Mrs. Koontz explained her alighting from an auto in Schenley Park and walking home. She said her husband had choked her as the car was parked in front of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association and had kept striking her on the knees with his knuckles as he drove through the park. She insisted on getting out, and as she did so, remarked: "If I kill myself, you will be the murderer."

Her husband, coming home one night late, demanded the keys to a steamer trunk, the wife continued. She demurred and an argument resulted. As she reached for the keys she found a revolver.

"I've been warned that you would kill me, and this is what you need," Mrs. Koontz testified she told her husband. Then there was a scuffle for the revolver.

ON STAND 2 HOURS

Regarding the vase-throwing incident to which the husband testified yesterday, Mrs. Koontz said it had occurred after he had gone into her room while her hair was down and told her she "looked like a witch." She testified he pulled her hair and slapper her.

Mary McCleave, Negress, of Washington, formerly a maid in the Koontz home, testified she had seen Dr. Koontz choking his wife. She was positive he was not caressing her.

Mrs. Walter K. Long, treasurer of the Southern Club, testified she never heard of Mrs. Koontz slapping her husband at the Charity ball.

STOCKS SOAR AS MARKET EXPANDS

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP.)—The stock market gave another impressive demonstration of strength today as buying operations were resumed in recent speculative favorites and a brisk demand developed for the copper, public utility, rubber, steel and railroad shares. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume, with the ticker again falling far behind the market. Total sales in the first three hours ran close to 2,500,000 shares, with indications that the 4,000,000 share mark would again be crossed before the end of the day.

Little attention was paid to the increase of about $46,000,000 in brokers' loans and the advance in the call money rates to 5 per cent, coincident with the heavy calling of loans in preparation for month-end requirements.

Radio was again the individual feature, soaring 11½ points to a new high record at 182 on buying influenced by reports of an over-extended short interest. General Motors was again taken in hand and bid up 5 points to 190 by early afternoon. General Electric jumped 6¼ points to 157⅛, the highest price since the splitting up of the old stock several years ago.

Copper shares were heavily bought on a further increase in the price of the red metal. American Smelting, Anaconda and Calumet and Arizona all advanced 4 points or more, with gains of 1 to 3 points of most of the other non-ferrous metal issues.

Adams Express, which was weak yesterday, rallied 8½ points and Dupont extended its gain to nearly 8 points. Among the dozen or so issues to move up 3 points or more were American International, Brooklyn Edison, Consolidated Gas, Lambert, Montana Power, Park & Tilford, Union Carbide, Union Bag and Paper and U. S. Rubber.

Rails presented several points of strength, with St. Paul common, Delaware and Hudson, Illinois Central and Canadian Pacific showing early gains of 3 points or more.

ASK ARREST OF SQUIRE IN EXTORTION RING

Government secret service operatives and city detectives today carried on with their smashing investigation of what they described as an extortion ring, when they obtained a warrant for the arrest of Justice of the Peace Charles J. Renshaw of Neville Island.

In Central Police Court today, the four constables taken yesterday as figures in the same ring, waived hearing for court. They were held in $5,000 bail.

The charges made against Renshaw are the same as those brought against the constables, malfeasance in office, bribery, extortion and conspiracy to extort.

The constables today had the trying experience of having their photographs and finger prints taken for the police records.

The constables are J. U. Groom, constable for Squire W. J. Burns, of Clinton; Frank Hartz, constable for Squire Renshaw; and Ray Bengle, constable, and Paul Sweeney, deputy constable for Squire Gilbert Martin, of Glenfield.

In obtaining the warrant for Renshaw's arrest, City Detectives P. E. (Hap) Moran and Peter Connor told Magistrate John W. Orle that in his confession Bengle had implicated Squire Renshaw.

Detectives said Anthony Puniak, of 2823 Preble avenue, who told city and government officers that the constables had offered to "fix" the raid made on his restaurant, had also involved Renshaw.

It was Puniak who helped the officers to set the trap into which the constables were taken, detectives say. Told "everything could be settled" for $375, Puniak proceeded to Squire Renshaw's office with marked money, supplied by Detective Inspector Clyde Edeburn and Lieut. Thomas Malone.

Detectives and government agents waited outside the office. As Puniak departed, he lifted his hat and scratched his head—a prearranged signal for the officers.

They entered the office, saw the marked money on the floor beside Bengle, arrested the constables and seized Squire Renshaw's records.

and two thermos bottles filled with beef broth and coffee.

Stinson and Haldeman alternated at the controls during the long grind. They relieved the monotony somewhat by minutely recording every detail of the flight, how the engine behaved, the rate of gas consumption and anything else that might be of interest to aviation enthusiasts.

Several messages in tin cans were dropped by the fliers. The first one was Wednesday afternoon after they had been up nearly eight hours. This message revealed that the motor was behaving beautifully and that it was consuming 12 gallons of gas per hour, less than had been anticipated.

On Thursday another message was dropped saying that as a result of the change in the wind, more gas was being consumed than the day before. However, the fliers added they were confident of remaining aloft until a new record was established.

COAL POLICE ACCUSED OF HIDING SHOOTING

Shot during a drunken brawl, which police say was the aftermath of a bridal party in a company-owned house at Montour Mine No. 10 of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, Mrs. Josephine Stewart, 52, a Negro woman, is in a serious condition at Mercy Hospital. Her husband, James Stewart; a stepson, Austin Stewart, 30, and her son, Alvin, 20, were arrested by coal and iron police, who, county detectives said, neglected to report the shooting until almost 12 hours afterward.

Chief County Detective George W. Murren, hearing of the shooting, assigned Detective James Reddington to investigate without waiting for the coal company police to notify him officially. Reddington found the woman at Mercy Hospital. She told him of the party last night and said her step-son had left the house for a while, returning "full of moonshine."

"He started to abuse me," the woman said, "and I ran upstairs. My son Alvin ran to help me and grabbed a revolver off the bed, threatening to shoot Austin. I tried to stop him, and the gun went off."

Hospital authorities say, Mrs. Stewart, shot through the abdomen, has a chance for recovery.

GROCERS OPEN MINE RELIEF CAMPAIGN

Every grocery store in Allegheny county will be headquarters for miners' relief beginning next Monday and continuing through the following Saturday, according to plans sponsored by the Retail Grocers' Association, announced today. Donations will be received from individuals desiring to help the thousands of women and children in need of food and clothing throughout this district.

The grocers will make contributions, some of them giving as much as $100 orders of food, which will be placed on display in their windows to stimulate public interest in the drive. Anything will be acceptable—food, clothing or money, which will be used to purchase needed things.

Posters have been prepared for the grocers, designating their stores as "Headquarters for Miners' Relief." The drive is being made as a general appeal to the citizenry of Allegheny county, and a generous response is expected.

The Retail Grocers' Association points out in the appeal that there is a difference of opinion between the miner and the operator, and each side is fighting for what it considers its just rights. The appeal for food, it is pointed out, has no bearing on the strike dispute.

"These people need food and clothing," the appeal states, "and they will need it for some time to come, so it is up to us as red-blooded American citizens to help these women and children of our unfortunate neighbors as much as we can."

the state institution had not been properly signed.

After a hearing several weeks ago the court withheld a final decision in the case pending further observation by Dr. W. H. Vorbau, superintendent of the hospital, and other physicians. Presumably, these observers have now pronounced Remus responsible, and safe to be at large, and on these findings the court ordered his release.

BLIND STUDENTS PLAN GYMNASIUM EXHIBIT

Pupils of the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind, Bellefield avenue and Bayard street, will give a demonstration of physical culture and gymnastics tonight at 8 o'clock. Miss Marie H. Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that appeared over Arkansas and Eastern Texas yesterday morning is now centered over Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia. It produced thunderstorms and heavy rains over the Ohio Valley states last night, and rain is still falling east of the center of the disturbance and it is snowing in Indiana, Illinois and the lake region.

The high pressure following the disturbance covers the Plains states this morning and it is causing freezing weather as far south as Abilene, Tex., and as far east as Western Ohio. In the Dakotas and southward to Northern Kansas the temperature is 20 degrees and slightly lower. In the Canadian Northwest the temperature is rising.

River Conditions.

The rain was heavy over the lower Allegheny and the lower Monongahela rivers, but at the headwaters of both rivers it was too light to start a rise in the rivers. The rain was also heavy over the Kiskiminetas, the Youghiogheny and the Ohio rivers. Stage at Pittsburgh is 18.3 feet and at Dam No. 2 10.7 feet rising slowly. Between 22 and 23 foot stage is expected at Pittsburgh late tonight and 27 or 28 feet at Wheeling Saturday night.

NEW PROSECUTOR NAMED

EARLE R. JACKSON ALVIN M. OLIVER

Earle R. Jackson was sworn in today as an assistant district attorney by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardiner. The district attorney said he had reluctantly accepted the resignation of Alvin M. Oliver, whom Jackson succeeds, and said his retiring assistant left a highly creditable record as a prosecuting attorney.

Evict Hurls Brick To "Get Even;" Put in Cooler

When Winfield Stoup, 45, and his wife were instructed to leave their rooming house at 111 Anderson street today because they hadn't paid their rent, Stoup retaliated by throwing a brick through a front window, police who arrested him reported.

The flying glass cut the face of Carroll Collins, 4, son of the landlady, Mrs. Lucy Collins.

GETS COOLIDGE PET

MISS FLORENCE TRUMBULL

Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of the Connecticut governor, has eased the pet situation in the Coolidge household. She is now the mistress of "Blackberry," black chow dog which Mrs. Coolidge took to her mother's home on her trip several days ago. "Blackberry" and "Beans," Mrs. Goodhue's dog, didn't get along so well together because "Beans" sulked when his rival received attention from members of the household. Miss Trumbull, a friend of John Coolidge, was likewise visiting Mrs. Goodhue.

"UNFAITHFUL," CRIES "BIG GAME" KILLER

International News Service

NEW YORK, March 30.—Mrs. Esther Wilson, noted huntress of big game who shot her husband, Dallett Wilson, last evening after he had refused to increase her monthly allowance from $450 to $1,000, said today that she was sorry and would ask his forgiveness. She was held without bail today for a hearing April 3 on a charge of felonious assault. On a charge of illegally possessing a revolver, her bail was fixed at $500.

Meanwhile, physicians at Reception Hospital announced that the wounds inflicted upon the wealthy attorney by his estranged wife were not as serious as was thought at first. The physicians said he would recover.

Wilson, who is 45, was a friend of the late President Harding and is a friend of President Coolidge. He is an advisory member of the Republican national committee. The Wilsons are well-known in Washington, Baltimore and New York.

SHE'S SORRY NOW

Questioned by Assistant District Attorney Joseph Pascolello, Mrs. Wilson said:

"I'm very sorry, now.

"I don't know why I did it. He's been good to me. Always, he gave me plenty of money for trips to Europe and my hunting in Africa."

Mrs. Wilson insisted, however, that she still had "hundreds of thousands" coming to her from the estate of her father, Walter A. Evans, lumber merchant of Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Her husband has been managing the estate, she said.

And to Pascolello she reiterated her early charges of infidelity against her husband. She gave the assistant district attorney the names of a number of women prominent in Washington and New York society.

"He got my money," she said hysterically. "He had me followed. It's all a horrible dream to me. For God's sake notify his brother, Jack Wilson, in Baltimore."

"A great scandal will come out of all this," she declared, referring to her accusation that her husband had been paying attention to other women.

PAIR PAROLED IN AUTO THEFTS IS SCORED

After admonishing two auto thieves that at one time men were hanged for horse stealing, Judges W. H. S. Thomson and R. M. Gibson paroled for two years Frank Mastria, 23, of Easton, Pa., and Joe DeSano, 16, of Akron, O. They stole an auto in Akron and got as far as Greensburg when arrested, it was said.

"The auto is responsible for more crime than any other instrument in our society," said Judge Thomson. "I am astounded at the number of young boys who are not criminally inclined, but who think nothing of stealing an auto. At one time it was capital punishment to steal a horse, but it is now considered so trivial that men steal autos almost with impunity. I understand an average of 16 cars are stolen daily in Pittsburgh."

WOMAN LOSES JEWELS, POLICE QUIZ BOARDERS

While Mrs. A. G. Brown was gone from her room in a lodging house at 1300 Allegheny avenue, for an hour today, $100 and jewelry valued at $300 were taken. Police investigating arrested four other roomers on suspicious person charges, although admitting they had no evidence.

POOR WEATHER KEEPS BREMEN ON GROUND

International News Service.

DUBLIN, March 30.—Unruly weather and a soggy field at the Baldonnel Airfield today again delayed the departure of the Junkers monoplane Bremen on its trans-Atlantic flight to America.

All was in readiness for the flight last night and Capt. Koehl and his two companions retired early to be fresh for an early start this morning, but at midnight it was definitely announced that the flight would not be attempted today.

The fully-loaded plane will remain on its specially-built wooden runway until the start, as it is too heavy to wheel into the hangar. It was covered with a tarpaulin to protect it from the intermittent driving rain at the field, which continued through the night.

Meanwhile, weather conditions over the Atlantic indicated that there was small likelihood that the flight would be attempted before two or three days. A huge steam roller was run over the field all night to keep it firm in case the fliers should suddenly decide to start.

EX-POSTMASTER GIVEN YEAR AS EMBEZZLER

Charles C. Castin, former postmaster at Muse, Washington county, pleaded guilty to embezzlement before Judge R. M. Gibson and was sentenced to serve one year in the Atlanta penitentiary. He embezzled about $1,600.

MAGEE IS VICTOR IN WARD WAR

Former Congressman James M. Magee won the final round of a court fight against political opponents today when Judge H. H. Rowand dismissed four more petitions seeking to nullify nomination papers of candidates for ward committeemen in the Twelfth ward.

The districts were the Twenty-second, Twenty-third, Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh. The court previously had refused to void nomination papers in nine precincts, holding that forces of Congressman Harry A. Estep, candidate for renomination against Magee, had no basis for charges of irregularities.

MODERN PORTIA

CONFESSES

When repeated raids on the Pierce home, Ninth avenue, Beaver Falls, brought Julius Pierce, as the head of the house, into court on a charge of making whisky, his wife, Victoria, confessed her guilt and is serving the six months in the Beaver county jail that were intended for her husband.

INNOCENT

Mrs. Pierce told the court that if her husband were sent to jail she would not be able to support her six small children. The court then ruled that Pierce was proved innocent by his wife's confession that she made the moonshine, and accordingly sentenced her to jail in her husband's stead.

MOORE VOTED SENATE O. K. FOR PERU

WASHINGTON, March 30.—President Coolidge's appointment of Alexander P. Moore, of Pittsburgh, to be United States ambassador to Peru, has been confirmed by the Senate. Ambassador Moore will leave for his new post at an early date, it was stated at the State Department today.

The selection received universal indorsement, due to Mr. Moore's outstanding knowledge of Latin-American affairs and of Spanish speaking peoples.

He was formerly ambassador to Spain and his accomplishments in that post commended his appointment by the President to succeed Ambassador Miles Poindexter at Peru.

Mr. Moore has for many years been a newspaper publisher. Recently he acquired two of the W. R. Hearst tabloid newspapers, the Boston Daily Advertiser and the New York Mirror.

Hunting & Military Boots — Hunting Persuaders & Military Spurs — ESTABLISHED 1810

E.J. Bliss, President,
Regal Shoe Company,
Whitman, Mass., U.S.A.

Dear Sir,

We beg to confirm receipt of your esteemed order for Thirty-Six Pairs of Semi-Brogued Oxford Shoes at Five Pounds, ten shillings, per pair, which shall have our best care and attention.

We duly received your Cable for £198, for which receipt is enclosed herewith, with our compliments and Thanks.

We are, dear Sir,
Yours faithfully,
Bartley & Sons.

Actual photograph of Bartley's original English model, for which we paid £5.10s ($26.50)

Actual photograph of Regal Reproduction for which we charge $6.60 in all Regal Stores

Style Authority

FOR centuries, London has been recognized as the authoritative source of men's style in dress—hats, clothes and shoes. That's why we went to London—and we went to Bartley & Sons because they are recognized as one of the best bespoke bootmakers in London.

Bartley & Sons have been making shoes for more than 100 years in the same spot (493 Oxford Street, London, W.). They have actually made shoes for three successive rulers of Great Britain, not to mention the Prince of Wales and other members of the Royal Family.

We paid £5.10s ($26.50) for the original Bartley Brogue with "punched and notched" toe cap and trimmings, as Bartley describes his most popular model. The lasts are identical in both measurement and appearance, and the design is the same. It has a medium round toe with plenty of spring and swing in the last for Comfort and Style.

Bartley describes the Sole as an oak bark tanned "middling substance," and that is what we used. The Upper Leather in Bartley's original is an Imported Calfskin tanned in Oisterwyk, Holland, and in the Regal Reproduction we are using the same identical tannage.

Now, what's the main difference? Bartley's shoes are all made and sewn by hand. Our shoes are sewn by the same machine as practically all high-priced American shoes. In Bartley's shop only four or five men handle the shoe from the time it is cut until it is finished. In our factory about 150 different persons perform some operation on a Regal Shoe. BARTLEY AVERAGES THREE PAIRS A DAY—WE MAKE ABOUT THREE THOUSAND A DAY.

Bartley & Sons' letter reproduced above will show you that I ordered 36 pairs of this original shoe. This is because I wanted to put one of Bartley's original shoes in 72 Regal Stores and show the original and a Regal reproduction side by side. I thought the best way to convince you of the value of the Regal reproduction was to show you the Bartley original.

I think you will agree that we picked out a good one to copy, and I feel sure you'll also be convinced that we made a mighty good copy. It's only one of many reproductions that we are showing, but I know it's ONE you'll want to see.

BARING COAL COSTS DEMANDED

MINERS SHOW PRECEDENT IN SUPPORT

he should thoroughly probe conditions there.

"Books Not Sacred"

Warrum argued that the Senate had the right to inquire into the practices of the railroads and to provide for their regulation, and since railroad fuel costs were involved in the present inquiry the committee had ample authority to demand the operators' books.

"There is nothing sacred about these books," said Warrum. "They can be brought into court in an ordinary proceeding to show a fact."

Warrum declared the committee could not intelligently frame legislation unless it had the information demanded. Without the operators' books, he continued, the committee could not find an answer to the questions: What is the reason for these labor disputes? What is the reason for these long hours? What is the reason for the injunctions? What is the reason for this excessive cut-throat competition—and for these 'yellow dog' contracts?"

Urges Conservation

Warrum pointed out some of the benefits that might come out of the present inquiry. He spoke of the desirability of conserving the bituminous coal supply. The anthracite supply, he said, would be exhausted in 100 years. Meanwhile, he declared, 250,000,000 tons of bituminous coal are being wasted annually beyond hope of recovery through inefficient methods of mining. He suggested that Congress, which is considering legislation for the conservation of migratory birds, might well direct its attention to the conservation of the coal supply.

In 1921 and 1922, Warrum continued, the United States Coal Commission, appointed by Congress, and with no greater authority than Congress possesses, sought and obtained from the southern West Virginia operators the very same sort of information which the operators are now trying to withhold from the Senate committee.

Union Plays "Ace"

Warrum stated, in answer to the operators' contention that coal mining was not interstate commerce, that the United Mine Workers made the same contention, and were overruled, in fighting the Redjacket case last year. In that case the United Mine Workers opposed the application for an injunction in the United States Court to restrain them from attempting to organize the nonunion miners of 316 companies in West Virginia. Though there was no claim that the United Mine Workers were interfering with coal shipments, the court held, and was sustained by the United States Supreme Court, that their activities would be an interference with interstate commerce, and granted the writ.

More recently, Warrum stated, Judge Schoonmaker of the United States District Court at Pittsburgh granted a similar injunction to a single coal company on the same basis—that interference with coal mining was interference with interstate commerce.

Spurs Probers

"Are you," asked Warrum, in an eloquent appeal to the Senators, "to follow the trail in this investigation to Southern West Virginia, and then be stopped there, as the United Mine Workers have been by injunctions?"

Former United States Senator A. O. Stanley, of Kentucky, for the operators, delivered the next argument.

"You can't ask a witness any question you please." Stanley told the Senators, "simply because you have jurisdiction in an investigation."

Stanley questioned the right of the Senate to punish a witness for contempt for refusing to answer a question. He said the authority to do so could not be found in the Constitution.

Stanley admitted that the Supreme Court had upheld the right of the Senate to punish a contumacious witness in certain cases, but he insisted that the Constitution did not grant the Senate the right to compel the attendance of witnesses, or the right to ask a single question.

"We have a right," rejoined Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, "to ask questions as a basis for legislation."

SIX HURT WHEN COUPE CRACKS INTO POLE

Three girls and three men were injured when the small coupe in which they were riding was forced against an iron pole at Pitt and Franklin streets, Wilkinsburg, early today. All were taken to Columbia Hospital. The women remained in the hospital.

Those injured were: W. J. Borland, 23, of 6506 Broad street, driver; Lois Christman, 17, North Bessemer; Effie Shaffer, 17, of 317 Carver street, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Mary Klaus, 18, Greensburg pike; G. K. Christman, 22, brother of Lois, North Bessemer, and V. O. Wheeler, 20, North Bessemer.

Occupants of the wrecked auto told Wilkinsburg police that their car was crowded by another machine and collided with the pole. They said the driver of the other car did not stop.

CARPENTER ROBBED OF HIS UNION CARDS

Oliver Grossman, carpenter, 712 Cedar avenue, has a working suit, but no union card. A thief ransacked his room after last midnight and took Grossman's best suit, $10, an auto driver's license and his union cards.

A top coat was stolen from the home of S. M. Crawford, 1446 Perrysville avenue, yesterday during the absence of the family.

GAS FUMES KILL NORTH SIDE WOMAN

With a gas stove in the room burning, Mrs. Bertha Flarety, 22, of 1227 East street, was found dead in bed last evening. The death was attributed to carbon monoxide.

SCORE PGH. COAL AND SCHWAB

contracts. They have repeatedly indicated this in their remarks at the hearings. Senator Gooding bluntly accused Charles M. Schwab to his face of pledge breaking.

SCHWAB EVADES ISSUE

While Schwab, Rockefeller and the officers of the Pittsburgh Coal Company all denied that they had repudiated their agreements with the miners, the explanations that they offered for their attitude have been regarded here as mere sophistry.

Schwab would not meet the issue squarely, but dodged and evaded, and tried to change the subject, when he was on the stand. Rockefeller said he had been told by the officers of the Consolidation Coal Company that they had not broken their agreement, and he had faith in them. He advised the committee to hear the company's side before reaching a decision.

George Anderson, vice president of the company, was on the stand all day Monday, and offered an intricate, involved explanation of the company's policy, but failed to exonerate it, in the opinion of Senator Wheeler and the others mentioned.

Officers of the Pittsburgh Coal Company have placed the responsibility for their abrogation of the Jacksonville agreement on Don Rose, their attorney, who, they said, assured them it was not a binding contract. Rose is yet to be heard by the committee. He is in daily attendance at the sessions, and it is understood he will go on the stand later, probably at the same time that J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, is heard.

When the United Mine Workers have finished their presentation of their case, the operators are to be heard, and it is known that the Pittsburgh Coal Company is preparing to enter an elaborate defense at that time to the charges that have been made against it.

The operators who have so far been heard, including William G. Warden, chairman, and Carl E. Lesher, executive vice president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, were subpenaed at the request of the United Mine Workers and questioned by the union's attorneys. When the union gets through, the operators will again be heard—this time as voluntary, not as hostile witnesses—and the action of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at least, in violating its contract with its union miners, will again be thoroughly aired.

Always Thin: This Happy Woman Must Tell How She Quickly Gained 11 Pounds

Underweight Men and Women the World Over Ought to Profit by the Experience of This Well Known Tennessee Woman.

Read It Twice

To McCoy's Laboratory:

This is from Mrs. W. E. Looney—I just must tell you that McCoy's Tablets are the finest things I have ever tried. I have always been thin and never found anything to do me so much good. I was disappointed in the beginning.

I weighed 104 when I began—now I weigh 115½. I praise them. I can't be without them. My limbs are picking up fine. I am singing their praises to everyone I see. I didn't have any faith in them to start.

Signed (Mrs. W. E. Looney), Tennessee.

Oct. 16th, 1927.

How can any woman or man either for that matter look superbly attractive with deep hollows in chest and neck and with limbs scantily covered with flesh?

In every drug store in America you can find McCoy's Tablets, sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. They are recommended not only to put on weight but to improve the general health.

One sickly man in New Jersey regained his health and energy and added 28 pounds of much needed flesh.

But read McCoy's generous offer—it tells the whole story to every fair minded person.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any "thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at May's Drug Stores or any drug store in America.

KEEP YOUR HEALTH UP TO PAR, GIRLS!

Allentown, Pa.—"I am very glad to tell how helpful Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was to me when I was a girl at home. Through overwork and overtaxing my strength I suffered a severe nervous breakdown, my whole system was in a rundown state. I was extremely nervous, had no strength, was tired, weak and all worn out, could not get rested or gain strength. My mother gave me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I was soon well and strong. It restored my nerves and corrected all my trouble."—Mrs. Samuel Pfeiffer, 536 Lumber Street. (Picture above.)

SEEK $95,000 FOR DEATH OF 4 IN CRASH

Suits for $95,000 have been filed in Common Pleas Court against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for the death of a woman and three children, and the injury of another woman in a crossing accident, November 25, 1926, at Wilson Creek Station, Somerset county. Harvey R. Schrock asks $20,000 for the death of his wife. Charles A. Shumaker asks $20,000 for the death of his two children, Alma, 16, and Earl, 7. E. B. Gephart and Lulu Gephart ask $45,000 joint damages for the death of their son, Franklin, 10, and personal injuries to Mrs. Gephart.

Mrs. Schrock was driving a machine in which Mrs. Gephart and her son and the two Shumaker children were riding, when the automobile was struck by a train. The three families live at Rockwood, Somerset county.

HE NEVER FELT BETTER THAN NOW

Local Conductor Restored to Health by Ten Herbs; Son Also Relieved.

"I felt so bad that I was on the point of giving up my job," was the statement of Mr. Fred Coudriet, 615 Freeland Street, South Hill, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating the new herbal compound, Ten Herbs. "When I read in the papers how much good Ten Herbs was doing others, I started taking it, and I have never felt better in my life than I do now," continued Mr. Coudriet, popular conductor, who has been employed by the Pittsburgh Railways Co. for 26 years.

"For the last 10 or 15 years I was troubled with my stomach. Food did not digest properly. I always had a craving appetite, but was afraid to eat—I have gone a whole week without eating. When I did eat, I would fill with gas, and bloat terribly. I was constipated and had to take physics continually. My liver was sluggish, and I lost all ambition. I think my kidneys caused the awful pains across my back. In fact, I was just about in a down-and-out condition.

"Ten Herbs certainly made a big change in me. I had not finished the second bottle when I noticed this change. My bowels became regular and my liver and kidneys more active. The pains left my back and I seemed to have new life. My appetite returned, and I could eat anything without fear of gas or bloating.

"My son, who is 20 years old, had ailments similar to mine. When he saw what good results I was getting from Ten Herbs, he started using your medicine, and he got the same fine results that I did. Ten Herbs seems to purify the whole alimentary tract, so that Nature may respond to such purification by creating good digestion, more strength, purer blood, and real nerve vigor. My son and I gladly endorse Ten Herbs to the public, as it is a wonderful medicine."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

Hats

Abounding With Much Chic

$5.00

THEY combine beauty of texture and color with grace of line. Presented in Crochet Visca, Felt, Hair, Milan and Rough Lacquered Straws. Their manner of pertly dipping a brim at one point and softly rolling it at another—touching a skull cap off with a wisp of trimming—and by other manners and means they reveal a strict conformity to the best tendencies of the mode.

U. M. W. WARN OF "SAVE-UNION" MEETING

With the announcement from headquarters of the "Save the Union Committee" that the national conference of miners scheduled for Sunday in Bohemian Hall, North Side, will attract hundreds of delegates from all parts of the bituminous and anthracite regions, officials of the United Mine Workers of America are firm in their declaration that any member who attends the sessions will be expelled from the union.

The announced purpose of the conference is to outline "progressive policies and discussion of the present leaders of the United Mine Workers." The "Save the Union Committee" advocates a national strike, pending a national agreement covering the entire industry, mass picketing, women and children on the picket line, a junior union for children, a labor party and a six-hour day and five-day week.

Officers of the United Mine Workers have branded the "Save the Union Committee" as "a radical organization with Communistic principles." They point out that the organization has no "visible means of support" and is headed by "discredited members of the United Mine Workers and hobbyists."

"Union relief will be taken away from union locals sending delegates to the conference," it has been announced at the United Mine Workers headquarters, "and members who attend the meeting will be expelled."

WAR VETERAN TRIES SUICIDE

When Mrs. Anna Pearson, of 7 Blanche avenue, entered the bedroom of her sick husband, Arthur S. Pearson, 42, this morning, to learn how he had spent the night, she found him unconscious, his throat slashed from ear to ear, and an open razor by his side.

Mrs. Pearson said her husband, a World War veteran, had been on a furlough since December from a government hospital in Dayton, O., where he had spent the last five years trying to recover from spinal trouble.

At the Presbyterian Hospital Pearson's condition was pronounced critical from loss of blood, and little hope was held for his recovery.

Prominent Merchant Retires

Alex. Hamburger, President of Hamburger Furniture Company, 927 Penn Avenue, Announces That His Store Will Quit Business

Pittsburgh, Pa. (Special) The announcement made in the newspapers yesterday that the Hamburger Furniture Company, of 927 Penn Avenue, is to liquidate, occasioned great surprise in mercantile circles. Mr. Alex. Hamburger, president of the company, made the announcement with the explanation that, because of his desire to retire from all activities, the directors of the company voted to close the business forever.

Mr. Hamburger intimated that the store will end its business career in Pittsburgh with a sale event that will long be remembered. He said that when news of this is announced (as it will be shortly), people will be simply amazed at the values that will be offered. The address, as Pittsburgh so well knows, is 927 Penn Avenue.

HAMBURGER FURNITURE COMPANY

"TYPO CLUB" RAIDED BY DRY AGENTS

$10,000 IN RUM CONFISCATED

The "Typo Club," a leading downtown liquor emporium, located on the second floor of 416 Sixth avenue, was raided yesterday by federal prohibition agents. Assorted liquors, including champagne and vermuth, and slot machines were seized. Total value of the material confiscated approximated $10,000. The raid on the club came in the midst of a busy day for the prohibition agents, in the course of which they made more than a dozen other raids.

None of the patrons in the "Typo Club" was arrested. John T. Albacker, reputed proprietor, and John Latch, a door man, who eyed prospective customers through a small peep-hole at the head of a stairway, were taken into custody.

GET RICH HOARD

Two of the other raids were made on places said to have been operated by Jack Mazzo of 1107 Vickroy street. Besides his home a dwelling at 1329 Vickroy street was visited. Two cases of champagne, two cases of whisky and a case of gin were found, agents say, at 1329 Vickroy street, while 48 cases of whisky, 25 gallons of alcohol and empty bottles were seized at the other Vickroy house.

Other places raided, the contraband reported confiscated and the names of those arrested follow: 3321 Penn avenue, saloon, 50 pints of moonshine and a gallon of alcohol, Joseph Harneski; 3235 Penn avenue, saloon, 11 gallons of moonshine, George Vlinick; 3406 Penn avenue, saloon, five cases beer, pint of moonshine, Harry Wiechan; 1011 Liberty avenue, saloon, nothing confiscated, Christ Copetas; 1705 West Carson street, saloon, 25 gallons of whisky, three pints of gin, Albert Reisbore; 6215-20 Broad street, restaurant, nothing confiscated, Phil Ciecarello; 4515 Liberty avenue, saloon, 100 pints of home brew; 6346 Penn avenue, saloon, one gallon colored moonshine, 204 gallons of home brew, John Simon; Abe's grocery store, Harmarsville, nothing seized; 308 Main street, saloon, 11 quarts of whisky, Rudolph Dieck; 5606 Penn avenue, saloon, one-half pint of alcohol and a pint of whisky, J. C. Kringe.

STEELENGINEER FALLS DEAD

G. W. Bergen, 45, of 125 Bayard place, construction engineer of the Carnegie Steel Company, was pronounced dead at the Mercy Hospital at 9 a. m. today, after he had fallen unconscious in Ross street, in the rear of the City-County Building. The cause of death was not determined.

DERRY TWP. MAN SAVES FAMILY FROM FLAMES

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 30.—When their Derry township home was destroyed by fire William Smith assisted his wife from a second-floor window, then dropped their four children to her and escaped himself. None of the children, Ruth, 7; Betty, 5; Myrtle, 3, and Cleveland, 3 months, was injured.

An overheated stove set fire to the house and cut off their escape by the stairway.

3 MONTHS TO 15 YEARS, BOY'S SENTENCE

Three months to 15 years in jail—the widest range on an indeterminate sentence ever pronounced in an Allegheny county court—was given Joseph Novetski, 17, of 2507 Mulberry way, by Judge James H. Gray today. Somewhat similar sentences were handed Albert Simenski, 18, of 2503 Penn avenue, and Stanley Szarcyko, 19, of 2641 Penn avenue, who drew from one and a half years to 15 years in the workhouse. Novetski has been imprisoned nearly three months now.

The trio had pleaded guilty to holding up a Washington Trust Company messenger, Leo Wiseman, on January 9, and stealing $20 cash and $4,000 checks.

The boys admitted they had broken into saloons in the Penn avenue district previously and had stolen cigarets and revolvers.

BANK OF PITTSBURGH OPENS TRAVEL DEPT.

The Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., has announced the opening of a new travel department for next Monday, in charge of F. R. Burn. He will be assisted by Miss Erma J. Gray, for 16 years in charge of the bank's foreign department. According to President Harrison Nesbit, the new department is inaugurated to meet adequately the growing tendency of Pittsburghers to vacation abroad, in addition to meeting the requirements of many local concerns which are expanding in foreign markets.

Besides representing hotels, steamship and railroad lines, the department is equipped to attend to the details of customs, passports and baggage.

MINER KILLS SELF CLEANING REVOLVER

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 30.—Edmund Walker, 40, Negro nonunion miner, who was fatally wounded at the Mountour No. 1 mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company last Saturday morning, dying in a Pittsburgh hospital, inflicted the wound accidentally a coroner's jury found today. He was cleaning a revolver, witnesses testified.

Fashion Says "STRAWS!"

$10

It's no wonder that straws have swung so swiftly into fashion . . . they're beautifully soft and pliable. Brims are wide or narrow . . . and irregular. Flowers, velvet ribbon, feathers, grosgrain bindings, unusual pins, form the trimming. You cannot mistake the new individuality in straw millinery! Blues in delightful tones, beige, grey, red, green, black. And remember—Easter is just one week away!

(KAUFMANN'S—Fifth Floor)

Spring Coats Show Variety

39.75 $59 $79

It's been many a season since women have had such almost unlimited, but fashionable, choice in coats. There's the cape coat . . . with the cape that divides itself at center back . . . or the cape that tapers down to a point in the back. The coat that carries smartness in its scarf-throw of the fabric or a bright silk. The coat that uses modern angles created by artful tucking and slot-seaming. The coat with the deep fur cuffs, but furless collar.

Whether the woman or miss prefers the type of coat that is suited to all the exigencies of weather . . . or one for afternoon . . . that coat is here. Kashas, twills, tweeds, silks. The popular colors are beige, grey, blue, black—and prices are modest.

Rod La Rocque May Co-Star With His Wife, Vilma Banky, In Samuel Goldwyn Picture

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, March 30.

WHO do you think made overtures to Cecil De Mille to release Rod La Rocque for a picture? Listen well, for this is a surprise. Frances Howard Goldwyn heard her husband say that if he could get Rod to co-star with Vilma Banky in "The Innocent," it would be a combination that would even surpass the popular team of Colman and Banky.

It has never been Frances' policy to interfere with Sam's business, but here seemed a golden opportunity to help. She visited the De Mille studios, interviewed C. B.—and after much conversation obtained a tentative promise.

Then Rod sailed away to join Vilma in Budapest and Sam and Frances also sailed for a second honeymoon. The four met. In the meantime, the Pathe-De Mille forces started a few rumors in which it was persistently reported that De Mill would associate himself with Joseph Schenck at United Artists.

Rod's contract with De Mille is up in June and it seems fairly certain in view of all these unsettled conditions he will not again make a picture for De Mille.

Rod and Vilma are now in New York and will not return for several weeks.

The length of the Vitaphone picture Fanny Brice is to make for Warners is getting longer. When she was first signed to do "My Man" in song and words, it was mentioned as a five-reel special. Jack Warner and Darryl Zanuck, his youthful general manager, now speak of it as their 10-reel feature. Well, I don't think 10 reels of Miss Brice would be too much if she will just do some of the things she used to do so well in her early Ziegfeld Follies days. I would even like to hear her sing "Second-Hand Rosie." But I suppose that wouldn't have a place in "My Man." It sounds as if it ought to be full of tears as well as comedy. Al Jolson is due here next week and Miss Brice will make her picture shortly after the Jolson epic is completed.

There is no one in California more loyal to the movie people than Father Mullins, the beloved pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd. Father Mullins is loved not only for his kindly advice, but for his sense of humor, which is unfailing. He says that everyone thought that Neil Hamilton did not sing "Mother Machree" in the movie-tone when Fox made the picture. So he is going to prove that Mr. Hamilton can and did sing it by having him give the same solo at the annual gambol of the Catholic Motion Picture Guild.

Western

JOHN BAKER

Mr. Baker plays in "The Love Call," coming to the Alvin April 9. "The Love Call" is a musical version of the old Augustus Thomas western melodrama, "Arizona."

FLOTILLA CLUB GETS LEVIATHAN ORCHESTA

Nelson Maple will bring his Leviathan orchestra to the Flotilla Club Monday for a limited engagement. In the Venice Restaurant, Diamond street, which is under the direction of the Flotilla Club management, Etzi Covato and his orchestra are playing daily for the luncheon period and at the dinner hour.

SECOND WEEK FOR OPERETTA

Arrangements have been made whereby "My Maryland" is to remain in the Alvin for a second week, consequently that operetta will begin its farewell for the season next Monday. This is announced as positively the last week.

"The 19th Hole," with Frank Craven, will be in the Nixon next week. Mr. Craven has for his leading woman Dorothy Blackburn, and in his support will be the same cast that appeared with him in the 16 weeks which he played in the Geo. M. Cohan and Little Theaters, New York, this season.

Van and Schenck, coming to the Davis Theater next week, sing with a humorous line of chatter. On the screen will be Madge Bellamy in "Soft Living."

AMUSEMENTS.

Origin of Corduroy

THE first corduroy material was corded from silk and manufactured exclusively for kings of France, who wore it chiefly while hunting. From that fact it derived its name of "cord du roy."

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

MAN'S LIGHTER SIDE

WHAT is the best time for a girl to marry? Well, Doris, before he has had time to change his mind—say, just after the third kiss.

* * *

Men have died trying to find the secret of perpetual motion—but more of them have died violently, trying to make love to two women at the same time.

* * *

Sometimes a woman has to MARRY a man, in order to get him to "give her up, gracefully."

HELEN ROWLAND

It is always dangerous to try to find out by experimenting just how fast your car will go, or just how far your husband will go.

* * *

"If you marry for money and a man loses it, what have you got left?" asks a feminine philosopher. Nothing! And if you marry for love and a man loses it, what have you got left? Nothing! Marriage is a sporting proposition, any way you take it.

* * *

Nothing so quickly dulls a man's interest in a woman, as to find her exactly where he EXPECTED to find her.

* * *

You can't keep a good man down—and you can't pull a bad man very far up. The moment you relax your hold, he slides right back to the old weakness or the other woman.

A woman's vanity is like a fountain-pen, always running dry and having to be re-filled; a man's is like a mountain spring, perpetually self-filling from the depths of his beautiful and unquenchable complacency.

* * *

Love is not dead, so long as your husband slams the door and rushes out in the middle of an argument. Wait until he goes to sleep in the middle of one.

Fay King Finds Beauty Isn't Everything

By FAY KING

NOT long ago I stopped in to see an old friend.

While we were chatting in his office, a boy came in with a woman's card.

"Is she pretty?" he asked as he read the name on the card.

Of course, he said that just to be witty at the moment. I did not wait to see, but as I passed through the outer office, I noticed many young women in his employ, who were not at first glance what we call beautiful, according to the standards of beauty contests. But they had bright, intelligent, interesting young faces, and ability beamed in their eyes, and expressed itself in their busy fingers.

It is quite natural for people to ask "Is she pretty"? Women, as well as men ask this question. We hear of someone we know who has been married. We women ask those who have met the bride, "is she pretty"?

And why not?

A pretty girl, like a beautiful flower, a glorious sunset, or an inspiring dawn, makes the world lovelier for her being. Not all pretty girls are dumb, either. Many are as clever, and good, as they are beautiful.

But looking pretty takes up a good deal of time. It takes a lot of concentration upon one's clothes and best points.

Much of the happiness in the world depends upon those who might look as pretty as others, if it were not that they are too busy doing useful things for others, to spend the time upon themselves it takes to look one's best!

FOR THE LOVELORN

Braddock

DEAR MISS GALE!

I wrote to you a couple of times but didn't see my letter in the paper. My trouble I guess was, that I wrote on both sides of my paper, but I'll not make that mistake again. I'm coming to ask you a few questions. When a fellow gives you his picture without asking for one, does that mean he cares for you? How can I make up with a certain fellow that got angry first? I don't have the nerve to speak first. It was my own fault, but my mother caused it. I am 18 years old and am not allowed to go out with boys. Miss Gale, don't tell me to ask my parents to let me go out for I don't have the nerve. How could I ever go out? Miss Gale, when you go out with a fellow and he pets and then asks you for a second date should you give it to him? Miss Gale, was it all right for me to give my girl friend's brother a birthday gift? I never was out with him and we talk when he's home. Miss Gale, will he think I'm crazy about him? I'm not but I do like him. He always says I'm going to be his wife. I hope so, because he's of the same religion and I guess my parents won't care because they know him.

BRADDOCK.

He must like you or he wouldn't want you to have his picture. You will simply have to screw up your courage and speak first, my dear, and that also answers your third question. No, I don't believe you should have given this boy a present, unless it was some small, inexpensive remembrance.

Undecided

DEAR MISS GALE!

I read your column every day and your advice is certainly wonderful. I now need your help and I wish you would advise me what to do, as I have no mother to tell me. I met a fellow about two months ago and he loves me and intends to marry me, I know. But I'm not so sure if I like him well enough. He treats me nicely and respects me a lot, because I do not believe in kissing and petting. It's disgusting to me. I think it's perfectly all right if you're engaged, because you intend to marry him. Many a time he tried to kiss me and I wouldn't let him. He told me that maybe I don't like him. Sometimes I seem to like him better than other times, and other times I can't be bothered with him. Why to it like that? I can't understand it myself. I am 20 years old and he is 23. Sometimes I get disgusted and wish I was married. I've been working since I was 18 years old and really I don't know what it is to have a home, and I'm just crazy about having one, as I'm a very good housekeeper, as you see I've been at it for years. I don't want you to think that he is the only fellow I met. I've met plenty of them, but they weren't any account. I thought I'd never meet a respectable fellow, but now I have one I'm not satisfied. So please advise me what I should do.

UNDECIDED.

You just don't love him, that's all, my dear. But he seems to be the right kind of a man, so don't give up his friendship. You may learn to care for him, as he wants you to do.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

U.S. Senator from New York

Problem of Headaches Must Be Solved

IT IS only a little while since I wrote something about headache. But if it will help a lot of folks to get rid of this annoying symptom, it is well worth while to refer to it again.

DR. COPELAND

I never attempted this sort of a classification, but I wonder if it is not worth making. Let us divide headaches in three classes.

First, there are headaches which are the result of remote disease.

Second, there are headaches which may be called "reflex" headaches.

Third, there are headaches which come from actual disease of the brain.

Having made this division, I will suggest another:

First, the headache may be due to organic disease.

Second, it may be a symptom of some functional disturbance.

Nature was very far-seeing when the brain was planned. It is made of firm tissue, through which run many blood vessels. Through these the cells of the brain are constantly bathed with rich blood.

The brain is wrapped in a delicate covering, called the PIA MATER. This is a thin membrane, supplied with blood vessels. Over this is another wrapping, a thicker, denser covering, the DURA MATER. Its purpose is to guard the brain substance from injury and the admission of germs or other agents of disease.

But Nature wasn't satisfied. Her next step was to incase this well packed and protected brain in the thick bones of the skull. Over them she stretched the scalp, and gave the brain further protection by the covering of hair.

You can see that almost the only way trouble can reach the brain is through the blood. Without hammer or bludgeon there can be no successful assault from without.

If the blood can be kept pure and the circulation be left undisturbed, there is little chance of reaching the brain. That is your job. You must so order your living that blood fluid and circulation are not disturbed.

How can the blood be changed in quality or charged with materials that are harmful?

Any disease, no matter where it is located in the body, where pus is formed, is capable of disturbing the nerve cells and tissues of the brain.

This is the general rule. You can apply it as well as I can: Abscessed teeth, pussy gums, infected tonsils, diseased nasal sinuses, ulcer of the stomach, infection of the kidneys or bladder, a running ear, an infected appendix—pus formation and absorption anywhere.

Any one of these troubles may have headache as a symptom. But it comes too as an accompaniment of eye strain from the need of glasses. Reading or sewing, or any other use of the eyes for too long a time, may end in a headache. Anemia from any cause is a factor.

It is a common thing after eating too much food, or as a result of infitigestion and intestinal fermentation. The "toxic" effects of food poisons may be no worse than severe headache.

Lastly, actual disease of the brain or its coverings may have intense headache as one of its effects. Fortunately, these cases are rare.

I have said enough to set your mind at work on your problem. If you have headache, knowing these possible causes, what is the reason for yours?

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" By Adele Garrison

Eleanor Lincoln Decides to Go Home to Put an End to Her Rival's Court

MARY'S expressive face clouded so palpably as I told her that it would not be possible to arrange an interview with Philip Veritzen before Dicky left on Monday, that I felt impelled to utter another low-toned warning.

"Your face is altogether too eloquent," I said, still looking intently at the pretended injury to her finger which she had made the excuse for crossing to my side. Then in an audible voice I gave my verdict upon the finger.

"I don't think it amounts to anything," I told her, "but if you'll come to my room before you go to bed I'll see it up until morning. Then Aunt Katherine will look at it."

"Thank you," she said docilely, and returned to her seat and the anxious inquiries of Noel Veritzen and the young Mr. Jackson concerning the supposed injury to her finger. From the tone and manner of both youths, the casual onlooker would have been led to believe that an amputation at the least threatened Mary, and I found myself smiling at the fresh illustration of the never-failing appeal to a youthful gallant of the slightest discomfort attached to the lady holding temporary possession of the organ he calls his heart.

It did not take me long to discover, however, that there were two people in our little circle who did not share my amusement. Of course both were too poised to show open annoyance, but I saw Philip Veritzen's long and shapely fingers lightly tapping the arm of his chair, and remembered that I had observed the action to be indictative of strong displeasure upon the part of the great producer.

Miss Lincoln voiced her feeling in an equally camouflaged but more effective manner. After a low-toned word to Dicky, she leaned forward and spoke to me.

"Dear Mrs. Graham," she said, her exquisitely modulated voice making a carol out of the simple address, "will you forgive me if I go home now? I do dislike going, for I have enjoyed it all so much, but I am more upset than I thought possible by my foolish terror over that owl, and I feel that I really ought to go home."

As well as if she had spoken the words aloud I knew that what she wished to voice was a request that lovely Mary Harrison be sent to bed, thus giving her a chance to talk to Noel. But that being impossible she had done the next best thing. She supposed, of course, that her departure would be the signal for the other guests to go. At least, I knew she was saying from the depths of her outraged vanity, that one cavalier would be missing from Mary's chair, as Mr. George Logan Jackson, who had brought her, must take her home again, no matter how strong his inclination to linger near Mary.

Secretly, I was perfectly willing to speed my young neighbor on her way. I was beginning to feel the depression which generally follows a nervous tension such as mine had been during the excitement of the evening, and for another reason than that animating Eleanor Lincoln, I was glad of the opportunity to remove from Philip Veritzen's view the picture of his son and young Mr. Jackson in open rivalry for Mary Harrison's smiles.

EX-SECRETARY, IN SICK CHAIR, QUIZZED

EL PASO, Tex., March 30.—(AP.)—Propped up in an easy chair in the spacious library of his home, Albert B. Fall, charged jointly with Harry F. Sinclair with conspiring to defraud the government in the lease of the Teapot Dome oil reserve, yesterday began to tell his story of the deal under questioning of Daniel Thaw Wright, counsel for Sinclair.

The preliminary examination had to do with the first laws in 1920 authorizing the leasing of oil lands to individuals. The examination then went extensively into the government policy regarding oil lands and details of negotiations leading up to the executive order through which Sinclair finally obtained the naval reserve in April, 1922.

A mass of correspondence and documents was to be introduced in the defense attempt to show that Fall himself had little to do with the leasing which he is expected to say was handled by subordinates.

Taking of the deposition, a task expected to require several days, was started yesterday afternoon in Fall's 20-room residence. It is being taken by W. B. Bull, court reporter for the Forty-first Federal District. Counsel for Sinclair, Fall and the government were the only others present besides Dr. H. T. Safford, personal physician of the former cabinet official, and members of the family.

Dr. Safford was present to see that Fall did not overtax himself and once yesterday interrupted the session so the latter might rest. Mrs. Fall has constantly attended her husband since the oil scandal first broke and has been at his side during his illness.

The questioning was conducted by Daniel Thew Wright, attorney for Sinclair. Fall later will be cross examined by Atlee Pomerene for the government. Attorneys for Fall who were present are William B. Leahy, Washington, and Mark B. Thompson, Las Cruces, N. M.

BUTLER, Pa., March 30.—Frances Marie Myers, daughter of Charles and Georgie Myers, of Butler, who today celebrates her fourth birthday, is well supplied with ancestors. Besides her parents, she has two grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Keck, of Butler; three great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Keck, of Butler, and Mrs. Fannie Jackson, and a great-great-grandfather, George Ziegler, of Butler. Two of her great-great-grandmothers, Mrs. George Ziegler, of Butler, and Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson, of Bradys Bend, died last year.

FIRST STEAMER SINCE 1897 GOES UP RIVER

KITTANNING, Pa., March 30.—The steamer Kittanning, making the first up-river trip of any vessel since 1897, was welcomed here last night as it tied up at the local wharf. The boat resumed its journey today and is due to reach Emlenton tonight and Oil City Saturday night. Maj. Jarvis Bain, United States district engineer, is in charge of the party on the trip.

FLAPPER BOOTLEGGER SENTENCED AT MERCER

MERCER, Pa., March 30.—Susan Hrenco, Mercer county's flapper bootlegger, was sentenced yesterday to spend four months in the county jail and to pay a fine of $300. She denied that she had taken the blame to protect her father, and testified that she and an Ohio man were splitting the profits.

PRINCE SMILES AFTER DIVE INTO MUD

FRESNHAM, Surrey, England, March 30.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales, maintaining his high average of triumphs and mishaps, emerged from the Highland Brigade cross country here yesterday plastered with mud and crowned with glory.

The princely sportsman got his damp smear of earth three jumps from home, when his brown mare, Miss Muffett II, missed her footing and fell. Wales tumbled wholeheartedly onto the rain soaked ground, but scrambled up and was quickly in the saddle again.

So far had he distanced his field that, despite the accident, he galloped in nearly a quarter of a mile ahead of his closest pursuers. Vastly pleased over his decisive victory, the Prince grinned through his mud like a happy schoolboy when he returned to the paddock to be scraped off.

SIX DIVORCE LIBELS FILED

Libels in divorce were filed in Common Pleas Court as follows: Marcie Mugrage, 3510 Louisa street, against Roy Mugrage, Canton, desertion; Maude Fout, 6927 Frankstown avenue, against Wallace B. Fout, same address, cruel and barbarous treatment; Henry W. Lehman, Noblestown road, Greentree, again Nancy C. Lehman, District of Columbia, desertion; Dorothy Brown, 1012 Christlett street, against David Brown, Soho street, cruel and barbarous treatment; John Berdis, Braddock Hospital, against Anna Berdis, Third street, Rankin, cruel and barbarous treatment; Bert Vaux, Carson street, against Harry Vaux, Iberia street, desertion.

TECH MAY OPEN AIR COURSE

A course in aeronautics is to be installed at Carnegie Institute of Technology, if present plans succeed. Robert Dake, president of the Aero Club, said that he had found Tech officials highly in favor of the plan and willing to provide the room and equipment for the course, which would deal largely with aeronautical engineering. About 50 students already have formed the Aviation Club.

ICY WALKS MAY COST $40,000

Icy walks have resulted in two suits being filed against the city for $40,000 damages. Mrs. Sarah Andrews and Harry Andrews, her husband, claim $20,000 for injuries due to a fall by Mrs. Andrews on North Highland avenue, near Harvard and Rural streets. Mrs. Lillian Rothman and her husband, Benjamin Rothman, ask $20,000 for injuries received by Mrs. Rothman when she fell in Webster avenue, December 29, 1926.

Police 5 Minutes Late; Elopers Marry

WHEELING, W. Va., March 30.—(AP.)—Police arrived just five minutes too late to stop the marriage of youthful elopers from Cambridge, O., here and Joseph Bombustie and Mary Edwards became man and wife.

The girl's mother asked the police to stop the marriage. Advised that her efforts were in vain, the mother tendered parental forgiveness and in a telephone conversation with her daughter, directed her to take her new husband home to Cambridge.

ALLEGHENY "Y" PLANS HIKE

Allegheny Branch, Y. M. C. A. announces the inaugural of the outdoor season with a hike tomorrow afternoon for members of the young men's department. Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Fisher will personally conduct the hike, which starts from the "Y" building sharp at 2 o'clock. Street cars will be taken to Emsworth and the walkers will take the road to Sewickley and Coraopolis, visiting points of interest and the Sewickley Branch, returning to the city by way of McKees Rocks. Invitation to participate is extended to the feminine friends of the young hikers and refreshments will be secured along the route.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Promise of Warm Spring Starts Society Moving North

WITH the approach, or rather with the promise, of a warm spring, more and more society folk are "gravitating" toward the North. Many are accomplishing their return home rather slowly, for they are stopping at the different winter resorts considerably north of Palm Beach, that Mecca of society in the winter time.

Of these "half-way" winter resorts Hot Springs, Va., is again this year quite popular. There is quite a little Pittsburgh colony there.

The William Larimer Mellons, who are at the Springs, are taking an active role in entertaining, as one might expect. They gave a large luncheon on Wednesday in the Cascades Clubhouse, I hear.

Eben M. Byers is half way home, too. After spending some time in Palm Beach, he is now enjoying the sports of Aiken, S. C. He was one of the winners in the second day match of the Southern Cross tournament on the Palmetto links.

Of course Palm Beach is not entirely deserted yet. There has been an influx, chiefly of young people enjoying their spring vacations.

Barbara Hutton, daughter of the Franklyn L. Huttons, of New York, entertained the younger set in her parents' Palm Beach villa Wednesday night at a dinner dance. Among the guests, I believe, were Margaret and Ann Rose, sub-deb daughters of the Don Roses, of Sewickley, and Mary Robinson, daughter of the William Christopher Robinsons.

In the post-Easter days those of us who are not going to be married ourselves will be spending much of our time attending the weddings of friends.

Priscilla Brown, daughter of Mrs. James E. Brown, of Sewickley, will leave shortly after Easter for Joplin, Mo., to attend the wedding of Jean Wise and John Lincoln, of Elkhorn, W. Va., which will be an event of April 14. Following their marriage, the young people will live in Sewickley, I understand.

Many of you remember Jean, I am sure. Not long ago Priscilla gave a luncheon in Sewickley in honor of Jean, who was her house guest.

The debbies of the 1927-28 season who have been flitting about the world ever since their "coming out days" ended, are now returning to the city, too. Marie Boggs McBride and her parents, the William McBrides, of Sewickley, have just arrived from Palm Beach.

The first days of April will see the return of many more Pittsburgh society folks, among them young Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Jones III, who have been at Augusta, Ga.

Many Pittsburghers have, I'm afraid, a "gadding" complex, for they seem to stop over at their home city just long enough to pack their trunks and bags and replenish their wardrobes. For while some society folk are just returning from the winter resorts, many already have planned where they are going to go for the summer.

Many of them, after the brilliant sophistication of Palm Beach and the conventional entertainments of the earlier season, feel the desire "to rought it a bit" growing upon them. And what place could be better for carrying out such a desire than the West? Quite a few Pittsburgh people argue, and so are planning to go to that popular ranch, Eaton's.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Robinson Schmertz, Jr., have decided upon Eaton's ranch, 'as have Mrs. Schmertz's parents, the Francis J. LeMoynes.

Sarah Moreland, daughter of Andrew McClain Moreland, will be among the younger set at the ranch, I hear. The Marcus W. Stones and their daughter Mary also will be found at Eaton's this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Landaw, of Melvin street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Landaw, to Earle Aronson, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. I. Aronson, of Tilbury street. Miss Landaw is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and Mr. Aronson is a University of Michigan man. A June wedding is planned.

* * *

The marriage of Miss Ruth Olive MacEwen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Allen MacEwen, of Mt. Lebanon, and William James Caldwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Caldwell, of New Castle, will be solemnized tonight at 6 o'clock in the Mt. Lebanon Lutheran Church. Miss Edna MacEwen will be her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Virginia and Miss Anna MacEwen, also her sisters; Miss Ethel Rose, of New Wilmington, and Miss Helen Davies, of Crafton. Barton E. Richards is to be best man and the ushers will include Orville Brown, John D. Kennedy, Edward E. Grotefend, of New Castle, and J. Don MacEwen, brother of the bride. Miss Eleanor Webster, of New Brighton, will sing and Miss Henrietta Bricker will play the wedding music. A reception in the MacEwen home will follow the ceremony.

The Woman's Press Club will vary its program this month and have a luncheon Monday at the Woman's City Club, honoring two of its members who are in Pittsburgh for short visits. Mrs. Elizabeth Hobe Burnell, a former president of the organization, is here from Toronto, Can., and Mrs. Mary Blair Thompson, who has been spending the winter in Virginia, is stopping en route from New York to Seattle, Wash. The monthly business session of the club will follow luncheon.

* * *

The annual dinner of the Audubon Society of Western Pennsylvania will be held in McCreery's tomorrow night at 6:30. Dr. Arthur A. Allan, of Cornell University, will be the evening's speaker, his subject being "Home Life of Birds," which he will illustrate with slides and motion pictures. W. E. Morgan will be the vocalist and song leader. The committee in charge is O. C. Reiter, Charles H. McCracken, Miss Helen Blair, Mrs. Anna McCracken, John A. Brown, Miss Marie Knauz, Miss Dorothy Auerswald, William H. Meredith, Miss Alva K. Held, Sidney K. Eastwood, Miss Anne Demmler and Miss Helen Stalknecht.

Quite a few residents of the Schenley Apartments are visiting out of town. Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Miller are spending some time in San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Martin are also in California, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler are in New York; Mrs. S. H. Robertson in Macon, Ga., J. M. Milliken is with a party of friends from New York in Bermuda and Mrs. R. N. Erhart is in Atlantic City.

* * *

Miss Katharine Godard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray S. Godard, of Mt. Lebanon, has been elected a member of the staff of the Blue and Gray, the weekly publication of Hood College, Frederick, Md.

* * *

At the Park Central Hotel, New York, are Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Bay, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Davis, Laurence A. Davis, Miss Della Carey, Edward A. Montgomery, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kahn, of this city.

The South Hills Woman's Club will sponsor the production of "Quarantine" by the Equitable Gas Company Players tonight in the Bane School.

Miss Helen West will serve as a page at the fashion revue to be held by the Woman's City Club tonight and tomorrow afternoon in the William Penn Hotel.

CRAFTON CLUB WOMEN HEAR OF STATE BIRDS

W. F. H. Wentzell spoke on "Birds of Pennsylvania" before the Woman's Club of Crafton this afternoon, in the Craft Club. Mrs. C. H. Stiles gave piano selections and Miss Ruth Malcum sang, accompanied by Miss Henrietta Warner, all under the leadership of Mrs. C. B. Foster. Mrs. M. G. Roberts, chairman of hostesses, was assisted by Mrs. J. W. Rogers, Mrs. M. E. Rothberg, Mrs. W. W. Rupp and Mrs. J. E. Salkvist.

The horticultural committee of the club is planning a party for Wednesday, April 1, a bridge luncheon to take place at the home of Mrs. W. C. Bowman, Oregon avenue.

The club Junior Section will hold a dance and bridge at the Chartiers Country Club on Friday, April 27, this being the section clubhouse benefit. Mrs. Rody Patterson heads the dance committee.

An address on "Informal Table Setting and Serving" will be given by Miss Marion Jones, teacher of domestic science in the Avalon High School, before the Avalon Woman's Club on Monday afternoon. Mrs. C. S. Ferguson, of California avenue, assisted by Mrs. A. P. Dietz, Mrs. C. M. Shepiar and Mrs. R. H. Schaffer, will be hostess.

GRISE VANDAL CASE UP

The wrecking of Hotel Grise during a "raid" by Pittsburgh police, which has resulted in a claim for $13,101 damage against the city, will be the subject of a conference Monday at which Mayor Charles H. members of Council and dent heads will participate. cil was informed yesterday Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt that the claim of Oliver Grise, owner, is a "moral" rather than a "legal" one. All of the members of Council present yesterday referred to the "raid" as an outrage, Councilman Charles Anderson adding that he never would vote to pay a cent if Grise did not press his suits against the officers who participated.

2 MORE SHOT DOWN IN CHICAGO TERROR REIGN

International News Service

CHICAGO, March 30.—Liquor raids and gun play, the fatal "rides" of gangland, fresh threats of bomb throwing, inquests and investigations—all these figured today in Chicago's worst pre-election reign of terror.

William Beatty, Municipal Court bailiff and Eighth Ward leader of the Republican faction headed by Mayor William Hale Thompson and State's Attorney Crowe, was shot and seriously wounded in a midnight raid by dry agents on a "soft drink" parlor.

Beatty was on his way to a political meeting with his wife when they stopped for a "glass of beer." Twelve prohibition agents, armed with shotguns, pistols, rifles and sledge hammers, staged a surprise raid on the place, and in the commotion Beatty was shot.

The politician charged it was a deliberate attempt to assassinate him. Federal agents, however, declared Beatty was not fired upon until he drew a revolver. The man owes his life to a watch which he carried in a vest pocket.

Several hours later, the body of a man identified by a card in his pocket as Paul Marchese, relative of the slain "Diamond Joe" Esposito, Deneen leader, was found on a smouldering pyre where he had been burned, perhaps alive.

The tragedy, apparently executed according to the merciless code of gangland, was discovered by county highway police. It was their theory that Marchese had been "taken for a ride," released from the car and told to run. As he ran he was shot down from the rear. They believe he was not yet dead when his clothes were soaked in gasoline and set afire.

BOMB FOUND

A gigantic bomb, composed of 16 seven-inch sticks of dynamite, enough to blow to bits a square block of buildings, was found today under a loading platform of the S. & H. Levy Produce Company, commission merchants.

A lighted fuse 15 feet long had burned about half way to the explosive and had been extinguished, evidently by falling snow.

Harry Levy, member of the firm and apparently an intended victim of the blast, said he could give no reason for an attempt to blow up the building.

GAS ASPHYXIATES TWO WILKES-BARRE MINERS

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., March 30.—(AP.)—Caught in a pocket of mine gas two assistant foremen at the Prospect colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company were asphyxiated yesterday.

The dead men are: Edward Foulkes, 60, Wilkes-Barre, assistant foreman for 22 years, and Daniel R. Thomas, 32, Plains, fire boss, and assistant foreman for eight years.

5 ARRESTED IN RAIDS FINED

Five men arrested last night in raids on three confectionery stores, a tailor shop and a residence were fined by Magistrate William J. Soost in Frankstown Avenue Police Court today. Moonshine was found in each of the places.

James Quinn, 40, proprietor of a confectionery store at 6316½ Station street, was fined $50 for his second offense. The others, fined $25 each, were: Albert Steppe, 23, tailor at 6259 Station street; William Tibbs, 43, a Negro, arrested at his home, 16 Orphan street, and two confectionery store proprietors, John Sanders, 29, of 550 Larimer avenue, and Joseph Feschetto, 25, of 110 Carver street.

Will's Quips on High Level --in Blimp

AKRON, O., March 30.—This town of Akron is responsible for the most aggravating invention that ever was let loose on modern civilization. It has spoiled more perfect days than rain and bad weather. There is one hundred and ten thousand people in some part of the world every minute of every day just fixing punctures in Akron tires, part of 'em rubber. I just took my first trip in one of these blimps. Judge Lindsey and I went up together and discussed companionate marriage, which was over the heads of most people.

PLEASES GROVE CITY

MARY JUNKIN

When Grove City College students presented "Taming of the Shrew," Mary Junkin, Butler's most beautiful co-ed, drew as much favorable comment as Will Shakespeare, an author. Campus observers will shed a tear when Mary is graduated in liberal arts in a few months.

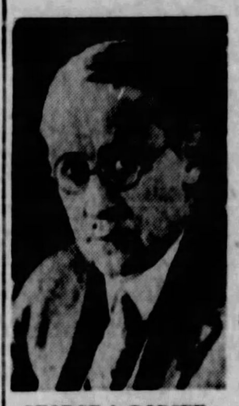
That's One Thing the Matter With the Home—Babylon Has Moved to Main Street

Why marriage relations are in so great degree unadjusted was the subject of yesterday's chapter of "Why We Behave Like Human Beings" in The Sun-Telegraph. As Dr. Dorsey pointed out, customs change and laws vary but the mate instinct is inherent and will not be denied. Reasons for marriage failures were set forth.

Man Also Lover of Children

CHAPTER XLV.

UNTIL recently, it was a woman-made world we live in. The mere male had to go outside that world to work off his surplus energy. The wife-mother was the center of the home and it was to her interest to make it a real center. It became a hive of industry and a swarm of children. Whatever glorified it magnified her importance. Within, she was supreme. In this woman-made world men passed half their lives; the other half was spent in bringing home the bacon.



GEORGE A. DORSEY

Women generally married for love, as they do now if their mate-hunger is unimpaired and they are free to marry the "man of their choice."

Now women have their "rights." In obtaining "rights" she abdicated a throne: she no longer rules by divine right. The children that "bless the home" are turned over to the nurse while mother presides at bridge, over conventions for the Proper Care of Children, over Committees to Cleanse the Slums. Result: males no longer naively accept matrimony or implicitly trust their wives; females turn to matrimony if they have nowhere else to turn.

All this, of course, makes for "progress." But in our social progress we have acquired special schools where boys and girls may learn horrible vice, and slums which in squalor, vermin, filth and disease, and in the number of their dope fiends, pickpockets, paupers, degenerates and hags are quite as "advanced" as those of Paris or London. It is no longer necessary to go abroad to see "life;" Babylon has moved to Main street.

Love of Children

Social conditions are changing, but the average American girl still approaches her majority fitted for no economically independent career. Brought up as a social parasite, it is her belief and the all-around understanding that marriage is her career. For that no special preparation is deemed necessary. Some do not get a whole woman. More rarely does the woman get a whole man. But sauce for the goose is not sauce for the gander in these days of holeproof socks, built-in beds, meals out and no babies allowed; the gander may feel that as a meal ticket he is entitled to a different brand of sauce.

To say that the mate-hunger is greater in one sex than in the other is nonsense. It takes different forms in the two sexes because of training and the situation. Nor are men less fond of children than are women. Having wider interests, they are bored sooner. In the divorce court the man fights as hard as the woman for the children. If there is any radical difference in sex-morality or marriage behavior—or any other kind of behavior—in the two sexes, the cause will be found in the way the two sexes become trained and organized for life and in the demand society makes on them; not in their inherent impulses.

Mamie, don't be a tomboy!

Many a mother these days nearly "dies of shame" when Mamie bobs her hair and marches off in the garb of a Girl Scout. "Girls didn't do such outlandish things in my day!" They did not. We have to learn anew what our stone-ax ancestors knew: girls can be as "outlandish" as boys! The girls themselves are just beginning to discover it. Marriage behavior is in for further conditioning. The sex-complex may become simple again.

"Crazy About Dogs"

A psychosis is a morbid mental state. We all have our little psychoses. That so few have big psychoses, that so few asylums are required to house the mentally unbalanced, is a tribute to our sound inheritance and our capacity to preserve our balance in increasingly complex situations and an environment which changes faster than man can change his mind.

My chief psychosis is, let us say, a morbid love for dogs. I "shudder with horror" at the sight of a dogfight. I loathe the dog-pound and am the deadly enemy of the dog-catcher. I defy the muzzle law—openly when I dare. I endow hospitals for unadjusted dogs and cemeteries for dead ones. In short, I am "crazy" about dogs. But as I am not a menace to society, I am tolerated, even encouraged by "sympathizers."

My own darling Fido dies. Now I am crazy. I buy a satin-lined silver coffin with gold handles. I have a ceremony. Rites at the grave. I refuse to go home. I refuse to eat. My friends remonstrate. I heed them not. It rains. I pay no attention. Nothing from the outside world moves me. I am mad as a March hare. Ambulance. Psychopathic ward. What "possessed" me? The church call is "devil" or The Devil. Freud calls it "Unconscious."

Most "A Little Off"

There are as many kinds and degrees of psychoses as there are of indigestion. There are few perennially sound minds in perennially sound bodies; few of us that are not off our balance or off our feed now and then. Sometimes it is serious. When we are off our balance, society suffers; when we are off our feed, we suffer. Society expects us to behave. And properly locks us up when our behavior is dangerous. But if we die of indigestion society is not interested.

There are those who cry when they hear a dog howling, smile when it wags its tail; the wail or gurgle of an infant means nothing to them. Some children are thrown into paraxysms of fear by a dog or a fur coat. Some cower from lightning, and when the thunder roars overhead shut themselves up in a closet. I dodge an imaginary pump-handle as I go by a certain spot. Few women would touch a snake for "worlds"; some love and make pets of them. Some go miles to see a prize-fight and are disappointed if no blood flows. Whole nations go to bull-fights, knowing they will see streams of blood. Some women faint at the mere sight of blood; an Englishman is insulted at the mention of it.

Psychoses? In a way. Such forms of behavior are not "natural"; they are no part of our inheritance. Every peculiarity or abnormality of behavior and every psychosis can be described in terms of individual experience.

(Copyright, 1928, by George A. Dorsey.)

IN MORALS COURT SHIFT

NELLE B. CROW

Miss Nelle B. Crow, pronounced "stenographer extraordinary" by Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court, where she served 17 months, has resigned, because, it is hinted, she has heard the call of Cupid.

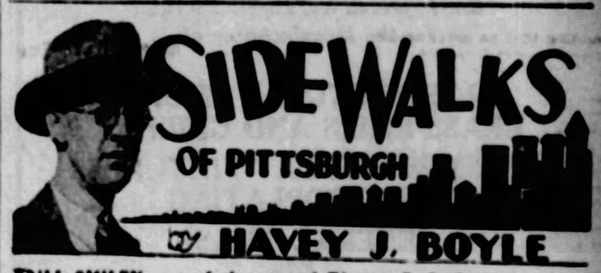
SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE



BILL SMILEY, son of the revered Thomas F. Smiley, who started out many a boy in Pittsburgh in newspaper work, tells about a Knoxville citizen, Raymond (Shay) Forster, who doubles in two widely separated lines. In one part of the year he helps to brighten our village by painting houses and in another part of the year he acts as a cowboy on a far-western ranch.

On the ranch he serves as a cowboy, quite a few easterners spend vacations, and, never suspecting that the bronzed fellow of the plains, who sometimes rides beside them after the manner of a hero in a Zane

Grey thriller, comes from Knoxville, Pa., the eastern folks begin weaving fantastic stories of the wonders of the East. The painter-cowboy-city-fellow listens avidly and never contradicts even when his friends tell him a great big whopper of the marvels of the East.

MY DEAR SIR: Once again I crash the gate of your column. This time the piece is about Leo Robin, about whom you wrote a few days ago, in connection with his writing the lyrics or helping to write the lyrics for "Hit the Deck." The boy's name is Leonard Robin. His father formerly ran the Beacon Pharmacy in Squirrel Hill. Leonard Robin wrote the lyrics of the song, "Hallelujah." Papa Robin now conducts the drug store at the corner of Forward and Murray avenues, Squirrel Hill. Leonard is now working on some new stuff.

Signed: DOROTHY ERSKINE BROWN.

FROM city hall comes the story of Bill Shore, who was dictating to a stenographer, and she watched her book so earnestly that she did not notice Mr. Shore taking the receiver off the telephone hook to start a conversation. According to the legend, it was not until Mr. Shore signed the letter that he noticed that quite a bit of his telephone conversation, was embodied in it. This is the first time we have heard of Mr. Shore since those times at the Press Club, when he used to say "Well, they can't run like this all night."

The city hall corridor crew, by the way, will be missing a post-graduate member in the person of Mr. Frank (Bull) Brown, who left our midst, to coin an expression, last Tuesday, for what he has come to be known as the long trek to the well-known Pacific slope. Mr. Brown's profession in the summer time is known as the bottle-stopper. You might think, from this, he was in the cork business, but he isn't. He's a baseball umpire and this season, as he did last, will listen to the crowd in 'Frisco, Portland, Los Angeles and other points, suggesting that he get a tincup and a few lead pencils or a grind organ that will play enough tunes to attract a stray coin or so from a sympathetic crowd. Mr. Brown, incidentally, is plenty good enough to be in the big league. Mr. Brown's life is divided into two parts: "Before he was judge of the first Dempsey-Tunney bout," and "After he was judge of the first Dempsey-Tunney bout." As he bears west, it is a pleasure to bear witness to his honesty, integrity and capability.

MR. M. CRANDALL flashes a bulletin that the crowds at the coming marathon dancing affair in Motor Square Garden, will be catered to by Mr. Harry Dipple, well-known East Liberty restaurateur.

Mr. Crandall described recently a cetain enemy as an "Ouch, Ouch. When asked to explain, he amplified: "Why, he's a pain in the neck."

HEAVY RAINS PUT RIVER STAGE UP

The heaviest rain in this district since last fall started the rivers rising and a stage of between 22 and 23 feet is predicted by tonight by Forecaster W. S. Brotzman.

The stage this morning was 18.8 feet. Because the rain was concentrated over the lower rivers and was light over the watersheds a flood mark of 25 feet is unlikely, the weather bureau said.

Thunder storms which began late yesterday continued during the night, becoming most severe after midnight. The rainfall here totaled 1.68 inches. At Freeport 2.9 inches fell.

Snow is on the way from the West with near-freezing temperatures.

ARE YOU a "TOXIC"

—then the Break-down!

No warning except perhaps a persistent tiredness—then a sudden breakdown and an "old man" overnight! That is the fate of many men today who live at the twentieth century pace. One of the results of the killing pace is a weakening of the vital organs, especially the liver. The liver, "laying down," fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. Then an insidious poisoning of the system—toxemia—and a general undermining of health, with high blood pressure, kidney trouble, hardening of the arteries and premature old age. If you would keep in A1 condition, physicians say keep the liver vigorous and active. Nothing better for this than a little ox gall. As the medical profession knows, ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the liver, building up its strength and activity. The genuine pure ox gall is to be had in dainty and tasteless form in Dioxol tablets. Each tablet represents 10 drops of pure ox gall and costs less than 2c each, at good druggists. Be sure you get Dioxol, with the name and picture of an ox's head on the package.

BOY SCOUTS TO HOLD MERIT BADGE EXPO.

Pittsburgh business and professional men are assisting the Allegheny County Council, Boy Scouts of America, with their plans for the Merit Badge Exposition, to be held in Duquesne Garden April 26, 27 and 28. C. L. Pierce, Jr., is chairman of the committee which has been instrumental in having many of the 70 arts and crafts booths sponsored by business and manufacturing concerns.

P. R. R. OFFICIAL WILL RETIRE AFTER 51 YEARS

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.—(AP.)—C. M. Sheaffer, assistant vice president in charge of operation of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, will retire from active service on April 1 under the company's pension regulations. He reached the age of 70 on March 4, after having spent 51 years in the company's employ. He served for more than 25 years as an operating officer of the company.

BOY WALKS ON TRACKS AND IS HIT BY TROLLEY

Steve Gontz, 3, of 40 Ceredo way, walked on the car tracks in Preble avenue yesterday and was struck by a Woods Run car. He was taken to St. John's Hospital, where cuts on his head were dressed.

BLAW-KNOX TO INVADE EUROPE

NEW YORK, March 30.—Further entrance of Pittsburgh steel manufacturers into European countries was announced here today by A. C. Lehman, president of the Blaw-Knox Company of Pittsburgh, who leaves tonight for France and Italy aboard the Majestic.

Operations of the London Blaw-Knox plant have been so successful, Mr. Lehman said, that the company now plans to establish plants in Paris and Milan. "We plan to begin regular operations as soon as possible in France and Italy," said Mr. Lehman. "We are already operating there to some extent. Spain and particularly Germany hold possibilities, too."

The foreign attitude toward American business is one of welcome, Mr. Lehman stated, because Americans bring capital, furnish labor and because American products are needed to develop the countries. This is his fourth trip within the year in connection with the foreign plants.

MILITIA THIEF SENTNECED

Lawrence J. Adams, of Swissvale, supply sergeant of the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery, Pennsylvania National Guards, pleaded guilty to theft of supplies in Hunt Armory in Federal Court today. Judges R. M. Gibson and W. H. S. Thompson sentenced him to 45 days in jail.

Adams admitted stealing arms, ammunition, blankets, suits and other stuff. He said he had replaced some of the supplies by buying cheaper replicas in army and navy stores.

BOMBER GIVEN 3 YEARS

"Sorry I can't give you more," announced Judge James H. Gray as he sentenced Tony Lugari, 33, of Highland avenue, Stowe township, to serve from one and a half to three years in the workhouse and pay $500 for attempting to blow up the home of James Cuccacrus, of 57 Frazier street, Stowe township, January 28, 1927.

Cuccacrus had been threatened and he and his sons were awaiting the bombers. Only the porch was damaged, as they opened fire, then chased Lugari to his home.

NORTH SIDE WOMAN RUN DOWN BY AUTO

Mrs. Jeannette Patton, 37, of 1417 Superior avenue, was run down by Andrew Kobsik's automobile at North avenue and Federal street early today. She was attended at Presbyterian Hospital and Kobsik, who resides in Woodlawn, was charged with reckless driving.

PITTSBURGHERS GET 60 DAYS IN JEWEL FRAUD

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 30.—James C. Russell and Walter Glynn, both of Pittsburgh, were sentenced to 60 days in jail yesterday, after they had been arrested for peddling cheap jewelry at exorbitant prices.

Private Trains for "Guests" at Sing Sing

NEW YORK, March 30.—A final bit of swank is to be offered to the men who go to Sing Sing in the future.

The New York Central yesterday volunteered to supply private cars three times a week for them, so that they and their keepers will not have to mingle with the common herd.

The idea, incidentally, will minimize the chances of escape.

Sparkling China

No soapy film when you use this new "bead" soap!

MADAM, here's a marvelous soap for dishwashing that we're anxious to have you try at once.

It makes dishes gleam in no time at all . . . makes china sparkle with far less work. No need now to polish them.

It's a new type of soap called Super Suds . . . made in tiny, thin-walled "beads."

It dissolves instantly and completely . . . whisks away all grease and grime . . . rinses quickly . . . leaves dishes clean and sparkling, without a trace of soapy film.

This wonderful new soap cannot harm your dainty hands . . . banishes that rough "dishpan" redness . . .

And it's wonderful on washday, too. Makes clothes look snowy white without the usual tedious drudgery.

Super Suds is surprisingly inexpensive. It costs only ten cents for the biggest box on the market.

Put Super Suds on your grocery list today . . . learn this easier, safer way to sparkling china and whiter clothes! And please tell your friends.

Making Tomato Soup Worthwhile Art

By PRUDENCE PENNY

THE making of cream of tomato soup is an art and one that is well worth cultivating. The secret is to combine the tomato mixture and the milk mixture without curdling. The curdling does not affect the taste of the soup, but it does affect the appeal to the eye.

* * *

HEAT a large can of tomatoes with one teaspoon each of salt and pepper, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper, one bay leaf and one-half slice of onion. When thoroughly heated remove the bay leaf and onion. Many people prefer to put the entire mixture through a coarse sieve.

Smooth four tablespoons of flour in one-quarter cup of cold milk. Heat the rest of the quart of milk, add the flour mixture and four tablespoons of butter.

Add one-quarter teaspoon of soda to the tomatoes, and just before serving combine the tomatoes and the milk. If you want to be particularly festive, add a tablespoon of whipped cream to each serving, just as it goes to the table.

The meat will furnish a pleasant variation from the regular roast, and will be considerably cheaper. For two pounds of breast of lamb, you'll want one cup of potato cubes and one-half cup of carrot cubes. The average family will probably require double this quantity. The meat can be cut in medium sized pieces and seared on the frying pan, and floured and seasoned.

Place in a covered baking dish with two cups of water and bake until the meat is tender. At the end of the cooking, thicken the gravy with a little flour smoothed first in a little cold water.

MACAROON ICE CREAM IN LOG CABINS—Ice lady-fingers with chocolate to form logs and lay them log-cabin fashion three deep on a dessert plate. Fill the center with macaroon ice cream.

CHEESE AND RICE CROQUETTES—One cup pimento cheese put through a grater, two cups cold boiled rice, one egg, one cup milk, one-quarter cup butter or butter substitute, one-third cup flour, salt, pepper and paprika. Make a thick white sauce of the milk, butter and flour. Add the cheese and stir until melted. Season to taste. Cool, mix with rice and shape. Roll in fine dry bread crumbs and dip in beaten egg. Then in crumbs again, and fry until brown in deep fat.

* * *

MELT the butter, add the flour and sale, and stir until well mixed. Add the milk slowly and cook well, stirring constantly. Add the cheese and beat until smooth. Arrange slices of toast on a hot platter, pour a little of the sauce on each piece. Cut the eggs in halves and place on the toast, two halves to each one. Pour the rest of the sauce over the six servings, sprinkle with minced parsley, and serve at once.

* * *

THESE things are small of themselves, but taken collectively they mean all the difference between getting your refrigerator off to a good, clean start and struggling along with a maximum ice usage and rapid decay. In other words, your refrigerator is operating on a basis of absolute efficiency or under an unnecessary handicap.

JUST ADD HOT WATER!

MOTOR ACCIDENT DELAYS FLIGHT OF AIR CHIEFS

VERA CRUZ, March 30.—(AP.)—A slight motor mishap to one of the planes bringing F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war for aviation, and Maj. Gen. Fechet, back to Washington from the Panama Canal zone, forced the party to remain here until this morning. Their next scheduled stops are Tampico and Galveston.

Better Icing results from SWANSDOWN

SWANSDOWN Powdered Sugar makes icing success certain and simple. Simply mix SWANSDOWN with a little milk, add flavoring if desired, and spread. Its creaminess outlasts the cake. Will not harden or crack. Baking cakes becomes much simpler with the icing problem solved the SWANSDOWN way. Also makes delightful, fresh, creamy candies in a jiffy. A variety of recipes on each box. Your grocer has it.

RAIN-LOOSENED WALL TUMBLES ONTO HOUSES

Two landslides, caused by heavy rains, imperiled lives and interfered with traffic in the city early today.

Several windows were broken when a 45 foot stone retaining wall collapsed against the rear of a block of five houses at 712-722 Cherokee street.

Residents of the neighborhood were awakened by the loud report that accompanied the breaking of the wall. The barrier, which is 50 feet high, was broken by masses of earth which piled up against the rear of the houses.

The homes of Harry Detrich S. L. Henry, Sam Radin, Margaret Kiley and Lillian Haffner were damaged. A shower of rock and earth covered a portion of Bigelow boulevard, near Kirkpatrick street this morning. The debris crashed against three billboards and loosened them from their foundations.

Part of a sewer was carried away by one of two slides in Mt. Vernon street, near Spencer street, Homewood.

Near the Winter Playground, South Side, a dirt slide interfered with traffic, but caused no actual damage.

"PEARL" FACES LIQUOR CHARGE: HE PAYS $50

Pearl Love, Negro, was fined $50 by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, when he pleaded guilty to unlawfully transporting 10 gallons of moonshine whisky. The feminine name of "Pearl" was used in the complaint and also by the defendant in signing his plea. The offense occurred March 18.

Wife Bares Shame to Save Mate from Chair

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 29. By admitting misconduct with Edward Hughes, killed by her husband and who engaged in a duel with him, Mrs. Bessie Wolford, 26, undoubtedly saved J. Wesley Wolford, 65, from the electric chair.

A jury last night, after nine hours' deliberation, returned a verdict of second-degree murder.

Wolford had confessed the slaying of Hughes, in a back room at the store of Benjamin York, Mt. Braddock, but claimed that his wife on her knees in prayer had confessed relations with him and another man.

You can make delicious pure fruit jelly as easy as boiling water—for 7¢ a glass

YOU don't have to live on a farm to enjoy real, old-fashioned home-made jelly. You don't even have to buy the fruit or go to the drudgery of preparing it.

Now, in fifteen minutes' time, as easy as boiling water, you can prepare six glasses of delicious grape, currant or raspberry jelly for less than 7 cents a glass.

Post's Instant Jelly makes this possible. It is not a gelatin product. It contains essential jelly ingredients of fresh fruit concentrated into tiny crystals which imprison all the original tang and flavor.

Merely boil water and Post's Instant Jelly according to the directions on the package, then add sugar. In an amazingly short time you have six glasses of the best jelly you ever tasted.

No more stewing over pots and kettles. No more fruit to wash and stem. No more draining bags to stain your fingers and strain your nerves. And you can be sure of the results. Post's Instant Jelly always jells.

Order Post's Instant Jelly from your grocer today and see how easy and economical it is to make real, old-fashioned jelly. Postum Company, Inc., Le Roy, New York.

NOW'S your chance to fill the Walnut Bowl at real Bargain prices

This Year's Record Low Prices Still Further Reduced, During This City-Wide Walnut "Sale"

There have been "sales" and "sales"—but here's a sale that is different.

Instead of just one store—it is featured by thousands.

Leading grocers all over town are joining with us—the 4849 associated Walnut Growers of California—in offering you a history-making Walnut Bargain.

The Lowest Prices in 12 Years

It all started last Fall—when perfect growing weather gave us the biggest crop in history.

Naturally, a bumper crop lowers our production costs. And we passed our saving along to you! That's why, all this season, Diamond Walnuts have been so much cheaper.

And you were alert to take advantage of their cheapness. In five months American women have bought 25% more Walnuts than in any previous twelve-month period!

But there are still some left—a small fraction of the crop. And it costs us money to store them. So we've made a further reduction—set the lowest prices in 12 years. And grocers all over the city are co-operating with us by passing along this big price reduction to you.

In fact, many alert grocers are so enthusiastically "for" this sale that they are offering special low prices when you buy 2 or 3 pounds at a time. Diamond Walnuts today are actually more economical even than shelled Walnuts—and they're all fresh, too!

Ask Your Grocer for His Special Offer

This bargain offer comes right at the height of the season—during Lent—when early-spring menus particularly call for Walnuts.

Naturally it won't last long. Demand will send prices up. So don't delay! Better stock up your pantry today, while special prices are quoted.

Watch your grocer's windows! Note his 2 and 3 pound specials. If he has not posted them—ask him about them.

And remember—look for our Diamond trade-mark branded right on each Walnut shell. That's your guarantee that even though you have paid less than ordinary Walnuts used to cost, you have bought the finest Walnuts grown.

CALIFORNIA WALNUT GROWERS ASSOCIATION
Los Angeles, California

A purely co-operative, non-profit organization of 4849 growers. Our yearly production over 70,000,000 pounds.

DIAMOND California's finest WALNUTS

THEY'RE JUST THE THING THAT LENTEN MENUS NEED

Now—during the Lenten season—when special care is needed to replace the energy food elements that meats ordinarily supply—Walnuts should have a vital place in your menus.

Walnuts give a higher fuel value per pound than many meats. That's why they form the basis of most every meatless diet.

And how easily they transform other foods—give them extra flavor, extra food value, and extra favor with your family.

A "meatless" meat-loaf, for example—or vegetable croquettes!

Walnut bread is a "special treat"

Walnuts and fruits—an ideal salad!

Walnut kernels make such dishes hearty enough to keep energy at its peak—and good enough to serve on any occasion.

Or, take advantage of the flavor and nutritive value of Walnuts by serving them in breads, cakes, muffins, cookies, pastries, and other baked foods.

And salads? Of course! Walnuts make any salad a better salad; better to look at, better to taste, and better for you, too.

Really, every day brings you new chances to use Walnuts—and keep the family menu varied, tempting, healthful.

ADOPTED CHILDREN WILL GET NORA BAYES' ESTATE

NEW YORK, March 30.—(INS.)—Nora Bayes' fortune goes to her three young adopted children, it was learned today. There have been reports that her estate was about $150,000.

COURT ATTACHE TO RESIGN

After 17 months service as stenographer to Magistrate A. D. Brandon of Morals Court, Miss Nellie B. Crow will sever her connection with the court after the hearings today. She tendered her resignation a few days ago but gave no specific reason. Magistrate Brandon and court attaches believe that she is to be married soon and Miss Crow refused to confirm or to deny the rumors of her marriage.

Morals court attaches will honor Miss Crow at a luncheon tomorrow noon in the Congress of Women's Clubs, Penn avenue. Magistrate Brandon said yesterday that Miss Crow, a graduate of Mt. De Chantal Academy and the Carnegie Institute of Technology, was the most efficient stenographer he ever had.

MRS. KLINE'S CONDITION REPORTED IMPROVED

AWARD CHILD $3,000 FOR INJURIES BY AUTO

When Matthew Ruk failed to appear and defend a damage action for injuries to Eleanor Brand Conkel, 3, the jury yesterday returned a verdict for $3,000 in favor of the child's parents. The case was tried before Judge James R. McFarlane in Common Pleas Court. Eleanor was disfigured for life, it was testified, on October 16, 1926, when Ruk carelessly drove his car into that of Mr. and Mrs. Conkel, who lives in Steuben street, West End.

Hands Before Racquets

RACQUETS were not originally used in tennis. The impulse was given to the ball by the hand. Afterwards a leather gauntlet was used, and about the middle of the fifteenth century racquets were introduced.

JERRY

The Epic of a Girl Who Had to Wait

By ELENORE MEHERIN

Jerry Meets Her Sister, And Starts Planning Their Future Life

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Jerry King, good looking, charming and nineteen, falls in love with Saxon Rhodes, a young architect. Marza, her fascinating mother, warns her that idealists like Saxon make poor husbands. When he goes abroad to study, Jerry promises to wait for him. She refuses a proposal of marriage from Heinie Ross. Jerry agrees to wait three years longer. She wonders whether Saxon loves her as completely as she loves him. Saxon calls on his sister who warns him against marrying anyone and facing poverty. Saxon's attention to Ora Pringle gives Jerry a pang of jealousy. They attend a week end party where things start to happen. She decides to give Saxon up. She meets her mother and discovers that Marza has another daughter of whose existence her husband had been ignorant. Marza tells Jerry that this sister of hers is dying and needs them both.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

MARZA pressed harsh fingers against her temples: "Fourteen years ago—that was 14 years ago——"

"Does she know? Anything—of this?"

"That I am her mother. She knows this. And that her father is dead. She has the silver bracelet yet, like the one he brought you. She remembers sitting in his lap and that he taught her to count the bangles. And that she used to wait for him on Sundays. On Sundays he took her out. She's often told me that he took her to the park where they went on a merry-go-round. And then that they went rowing on the lake. She thinks I was ill all those years. And that's why she was put in school. It is so easy to deceive a child. They have such trust in us. She thinks her name is King. She is known as Stephanie King."

"Then she doesn't know you have me?"

"I've told her of a cousin. For years she's heard of her cousin. You—Jerry. She knows that you're coming—"

"A cousin!" Jerry repeated, feeling suddenly crushed and disowned. "We will tell her the truth now? When she is able—of surely! Oh, mother, after my father died—you could have brought her then!"

Marza's hands moved over till they covered her eyes: "I should have brought her then. How could I explain her—a child past 5, unless I denied being her mother? I couldn't disown either of you. Nor could I tell the truth. Oh God—how many nights I lay awake. How many years I planned. Two years ago I thought we might go to Europe. You remember I had hopes of this. But there wasn't enough money. And she wanted to finish school."

Marza rose and came swaying to Jerry. She said quietly: "The wrong I've done her is greater than the wrong I do you—now. How do you take it, Jerry? We are nearer in thought. I should like to know how you take it."

"A sister—a sister," thought Jerry, this seeming so unreal, so incredible that she now only put her arms about Marza, saying in a high, trembling falsetto: "Don't be a fool, Marza—don't be altogether a fool. What do you mean, how do I take it? How do you suppose I'd take it? You're gorgeous to me and brave and I love you now a thousand times more. Oh, you're so white and thin, Marza darling. But I'm glad you had courage enough—joy enough. Is she worthy of you? Oh Marza—what is she like—what is she like!"

She hid her face with a soft, hysterical laugh against Marza's soft, sweet neck. "What shall we do with her—Marza, what can we do with her—"

"I want to take her home . . . want you to help me take her home—"

CHAPTER XXXVI.

JERRY paused with her hand on the door. She felt warm with the crowded hush of a vast excitement.

"I'll go alone," she told Marza. Now she wondered why she said this.

Behind this door her sister lay.

She pushed it breathlessly. And stood backed to it, staring at the quiet figure on the bed.

She saw the profile clearly. The short upper lip of a full, sweet mouth; the short, straight nose, brown, silky brows. And fallen carelessly across the forehead, a lock of hair, the rich shade of old mahogany.

"Oh," thought Jerry, brushing a swift, fierce little hand across her eyes. "All right so far."

She stepped lightly to the bed and gazed, blinking in the sleeper's face. Tender and child-like it seemed with those brown silky brows and parted lips. The eyelashes gave a kind of merry look, for they were short but amazingly thick like a stubble about the waxy lids. Even closed, the eyes were provocative. The mouth bore traces of pain, but it had a gallant, winsome look.

"Like he was," thought Jerry. "Like Stephen. Oh—one of us!"

She closed her eyes with a strange, bitter longing to sob; to kneel at the bed and kiss these sweet, parted lips.

"My sister," she went on vaguely—"really my sister."

And she wondered, with a sinking, what this girl would say—if she would like this. . . .

It would be hard for her. She would bear the brunt of it. Of the three Stephanie would have to fight the hardest.

This suddenly brought tears to Jerry's eyes that were now surprised by a faint: "Hello! I see them. Been peeking. You're just as I dreamed you. And me? What do you think of me?"

The soft, naive question went through her like a knife. "You're all right. As much as I see."

"I like that! Would you mind kissing me?"

Jerry stooped down, her heart in her throat. She felt blinded—shaken. Her sister—

Stephanie smiled—lying there so quiet. She was very worn and white. Now the short, stubbly lashes went up and down.

"I've waited years for you, Jerry. Were you always curious about me, too?"

"Yes."

"You came all this way to see me. I'm so glad. It makes it easier for mother. You're very dear to her—" Jerry stooped down and folded her hands over Stephanie's. She had a hot, tight feeling in her throat—a feeling of blood flying wildly to her cheeks. This husky-voiced stranger—her sister—so calmly calling Marza "mother." So quiet that—"you're very dear to her—"

She regarded Stephanie's hand—thin, modeled like a statue's—Marza's hands.

"It will be hard for both of us. Lord, hard! Harder for her—"

Marza, gliding into the room, face transfigured—a radiant look. She folded her arms gently over Stephanie. "You're better! My darling, better!"

Stephanie said: "Mother dear!" And again Jerry experienced the shock—the peculiar tightening of her throat.

She was glad to get out in the air; glad to be walking swiftly from the hospital to the hotel. But in the room she became restless and went out to wander through the shops.

She came to abrupt halts with that terrible wish to sob; to fling herself against the wall and sob. "How can we work it out? Who can work this out?"

It kept her awake that night—many nights. It was like a fist striking.

Especially when she sat with Stephanie and repeated with ever-fresh incredulity: "My sister!"

Then as she found herself drawn more and more poignantly with a tenderness—with a deep, thrilled liking for this gallant, winsome daughter of Stephen and her mother . . . then the thought with a bursting pang: "How can anyone tell her the truth—now after all these years? Oh, the cruelty—"

She wandered incessantly how Stephanie would bear it—how much courage did she have.

Stephanie, growing a little stronger, was puzzled by these lapses.

One day she interrupted Jerry's reading with a gleeful: "You darby! You've not accepted me—not yet, have you? That's why you sit there regarding me with such brooding eyes. You're like Marza—arrogant, extra-fine. But I'm a common carrot-kind of person, friendly even to a horse when I like him."

She held her hands in front of her as though she were counting the fingers, making sure there were ten. "Jerry, does my mother mean to take me home? She's promised this so long. Each year. Then always something happened. And here I am. Will this be an excuse, do you think?

"But I'm not going to be laid up always! I'm just NOT that kind of person. In a few months I can be moved. Will she take me with her?"

"Oh—I'm sure—I'm sure she will."

"I've an odd idea, Jerry, that you're mixed up in it. Why do I feel this about you? Why should you be involved?"

"Am I the dark lady of the sonnets to you, Stephanie?"

"There's some reason. I don't know—" She drew the hands closer till they rested lightly over her eyes. This gesture was exactly like one of Marza's. "I dread being disappointed—this time."

"This time you won't be disappointed. She means to take you. That's why I came—to help."

She turned her eyes slowly and gave Jerry a long, searching look. Then laughed: "And you will!"

"I will!"

Marza moved about the room smiling. She came to meet Jerry with a laugh—with that high, golden laugh. As though there were no problems in the world.

"She will be better. She may even walk—soon—in a year or less. Oh, my pet! Like a benediction—like a forgiveness."

"You mean to take her home, mother? Back to San Francisco?"

Marza had her back turned now, her hand turning the pages of a book. "It is one of the plans—perhaps the wisest."

"How can you? Unless you mean now to deny her? If we go home you cannot claim her as a daughter. It would be foolish from your standpoint and unnecessary. And it would make Stephanie's lot needlessly bitter."

"MY DEAR, I'm all-of-a-SHIV-and-QUIV! I mean I'm ACtually QUAking with QUALMS at this point, no less, because I'm SIMply TERRified lest some Violence be done—you know the type! I mean I HONestly had no idea this BROTHer of ARab's was so DESPrately inFATuated with me but I mean he's SIMply MAD about me, my dear, because he's ACtually so JEALous of ARab it simply ISn't FUNny a BIT, my dear, and I'm ACtually FRAYED down to my WARP and WOOF in trepiDAtion or something and I VOW I simply TREMble like an ASpirin every time ARab appears on the hoRIzon and I'm with his BROTHer because I mean ARab starts RAZzing his brother every time he SEES him nowadays, my dear, and his brother takes it TERribly SEriously on account of being so FRIGHTfully inFATuated with ME, my dear, and so treMENdously JEALOUS, of ARab and all, do you know what I mean? GOSH, it's exciting, my dear! I mean I s'pose he'd REALly be capable of ANY crime at this point on account of the treMENdous Violence of his PASsion or something and I mean I s'pose I'm sort of the INnocent CAUSE of it all, AREn't I? But I mean how can I HELP it, my dear? Because it's certainly not MY fault if these BIMbos inSIST on failing MADly in LOVE with me, my dear, because I simply NEVer enCOURage them or anything but GOSH, my dear, I think it's TERribly roMANtic to sort of FEEL you are atTRACtive-looking enough to practically inSPIRE somebody who's MAD about you to asSASsinate somebody they're JEALous of—I mean I ACtually DO!"

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Saturday, March 31

I find my zenith doth depend upon a most auspicious star.—SHAKESPEARE.

THE planetary configurations for this day favor the removal of a long-hampering or thwarting obstruction. This may necessitate a disagreeable upheaval or breaking away from crystallising conditions or personalities, but will make for expansion, growth, fulfilled ambitions and increase of wealth.

Those whose birthday it is may plan for a year of activity and expansion after a time of congestion and obstruction. While this breaking of crystallized conditions may be sudden and have some unpleasant angles in the end, growth, fulfilled ambitions and increased money are sure to follow.

A child born on this day may have many opportunities for making its way through its own efforts as well as by the aid of those in power and elders. It should be diligent, patient and ambitious.

Rose beige crochet turban with two shades of grosgrain 'round the crown and with pastel flower cluster posed over the right ear.

Violet visca, hand woven crochet with deeper lacquered violets forming the fore part of the crown, belting ribbon brim.

Monet blue hemp braid skull cap with self cocardes applied over each ear — cut high over the eyebrow in the new manner.

Model in sand and black with Italian hair crown and satin brim—its two-color aigrette skilfully arranged over the right ear.

Shaded green flower turban with crown of soft visca covered with velvet flowers and foliage—registering Spring in tone and contour.

Tuscan braid design in butterscotch tone tailored in the eyebrow design with three tones of belting ribbon around the crown and modernist brooch ornament.

Polo green felt hat arranged with pleated stitched bands crowning the crown — an accurate replica of one of Descat's successes of Springtime.

Mrs. Coolidge Prefers to Stay; Trade Rises—Hoover

—By B. C. FORBES—

WASHINGTON, March 30.

MRS. COOLIDGE would like to stay another four years in the White House.

If she had her way, the President would accept another nomination.

But she herself does not know any better than you or I whether he can conceivably be induced to submit to being "drafted." The President is as communicative with her on this subject as he is with others. These facts, please understand, were not given me by President Coolidge or Mrs. Coolidge. But they can be accepted unreservedly as facts.

YOU doubtless have long heard it gossiped that Mrs. Coolidge, largely for the sake of young John Coolidge, was desirous that the family should step out of the ceaseless publicity which necessarily beats upon the President of the United States and every member of his family. The news that this is not so is, therefore, distinctly interesting.

It may, indeed, modify the present definite conviction held by many that, under no circumstances, would President Coolidge agree to run again. True, Calvin Coolidge is less influenced by his wife in major matters than most husbands are influenced by their wives. In this connection it is illuminating to know that he did not inform Mrs. Coolidge of the fact that he was going to issue his now famous "I do not choose to run" statement. She did not know he had acted until after the announcement had been handed to the press correspondents for publication throughout the world.

Even so, it is a factor worth taking into the reckoning that Mrs. Coolidge would like to continue to occupy the White House another four years.

THE impression exists in at least certain high circles here that the recent developments injurious to the Republican party are likely to have a powerful influence upon Mr. Coolidge's course. In plainer language, the idea has gained ground that, if the Republican outlook grows worse instead of better, there will be an overwhelming demand from party leaders that Mr. Coolidge owes it to the party and to the country to acquiesce in his nomination, and the opinion is widely held that he would submit should he become convinced that it was his duty to put aside personal preference for party and patriotic reasons.

FROM Secretary Hoover I have obtained a statement on business conditions which will encourage you.

"The situation has been steadily improving since December," he said. "We had three economic shocks last year which naturally brought about some depression. But we have got by that condition.

"While nobody can predict what is going to happen, it is most significant and gratifying to note that the three industries which always more or less forecast demand are all showing improvement today over this time last year, namely, the construction industry, the machine tool industry and the vast equipment industry."

"What about unemployment?" I asked.

"When you consider that we have 42,000,000 or 43,000,000 persons gainfully employed, there must necessarily be some unemployed all the time, due to the interchanging of jobs. The report of Secretary Davis shows some 1,800,000 unemployed. We must always figure on from 750,000 to 1,000,000 being unemployed under normal conditions, so that the unusual amount of unemployment at present is not as great as might appear on the face of things. It is, however, more than we want to see unemployed, and I hope the number will quickly diminish. Incidentally, the Labor Department's figures are entirely in line with the reports coming to this department concerning business conditions."

MR. HOOVER, for obvious reasons, has consistently refused to give interviews on political subjects. I gathered, however, that he will probably take occasion before long to lay his views before the public in a comprehensive way. Meanwhile, Secretary Hoover, like Gov. Smith, is assiduously attending to his regular daily duties.

As I left his office I ran into a delegation here to confer with him on southern flood problems. Since Hoover took office more delegations have visited the Department of Commerce from all parts of the country than have visited all other government departments combined. He has maintained a wide open ear. His department has extended to American business men a measure of co-operation and service wholly without precedent.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, March 30.—The cotton market opened steady today at unchanged prices to an advance of four points. Active months soon showed net gains of 7 to 9 points on covering and fresh buying inspired by relatively steady cables and reports of rains in the eastern belt.

July sold up to 19.26c and October to 18.91c, but the advance was checked by a renewal of near month liquidation. July sold off to 19.15c or 2 points net lower by the end of the first hour. New crop positions eased back to about yesterday's closing figures in sympathy with the near month weakness.

Private cables reported trade calling had been supplied by hedge selling and liquidation in the Liverpool market, but that the demand from India and China for cotton cloths was broadening in the Manchester market.

The market eased later under further near-month liquidation while there were reports of a little southern selling in the old crop months. July sold off to 19.07c, or 10 points net lower, while October declined to 18.73c, a net loss of 9 points. There was some scale-down buying, presumably for trade account and covering, which checked the decline and prices showed rallies of 3 or 4 points from the lowest at midday.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The raw sugar market was quiet and in absence of business prices were unchanged at 4.61c for Cuban duty-paid.

Price changes in raw sugar futures were irregular during the early hours, but generally higher. The list opened unchanged to 2 points higher, but attracted enough realizing or liquidation to satisfy the demand and prices reacted 1 to 3 points. The steadier showing of the London market, however, checked aggressive selling and prices firmed up again on covering and Cuban support. At midday prices were 1 to 2 points net higher.

The refined sugar market was unchanged with a better withdrawal demand and some increase in new buying reported. Prices were unchanged at 5.90 to 5.95c for fine granulated, with second-hand offerings less in evidence.

GENERAL LIST IS FIRM, QUIET

Trading was somewhat hesitant on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange during the forenoon session today, but prices held to a comparativly narrow range with no definite trend evident in any of the various groups.

In the [illegible]el section, Lone Star sagged a small fraction in the early market but its action was offset by firmness in Dixie Gas and Utilities preferred which moved up more than a point from the last previous price.

Moderate demand for United Engineering and Foundry lifted the price on that issue a fraction in the first hour and other of the heavy industrial shares displayed a firm tone, although trading volume was light. Armstrong Cork sold at 63, comparing with the price of 67 established when the shares were first handled in the official market a few days ago.

First National Bank shares were strong with the stock selling ex-dividend today and showing a gain of 5 points over the last previous price. Calculating the dividend of $2.50 a share quarterly and 50 cents extra, the 355 price at which the shares changed hands represented a net improvement of 8 points. Bank of Pittsburgh was handled in small lots at 190, unchanged.

Poor Mae!

MAE MURRAY

"My antiques are younger than Los Angeles," Mae Murray of the flickers pouted in court when she pressed charges that Jack Donovan, movie actor, had sold her a $25,000 house for $50,000 by appealing to her aesthetic tastes.

PENN PLAYERS PACK MOSQUE

Syria Mosque was filled last night for the fortieth annual production of the Mask and Wig Club of the University of Pennsylvania, which took the form of a "too-good-to-say-how-good" musical comedy, titled "Tarantella."

A full company of fine-voiced campus boys, some in their more natural roles as men, and others as ladies of the chorus and in leading feminine parts, with a large orchestra, staged the show. The costumes rivaled those of Broadway's productions.

Francis I. Curtis, as Mme. Guinevere Bliss, writer of scenarios for the International Pictures, Inc., and Norman B. Roche, as Laline Lane, leading lady of the film company, starred in their parts, as did W. S. Beaumont, leader of the Magian Brigands who held the movie company prisoners, and James A. Daggett as Frisco Fanny, a tough little "extra."

MARYLAND CITY FIRE SWEPT

CRISFIELD, Md., March 30.—(INS.)—Fire originating in the Arcade Theater last night virtually wiped out the entire uptown business section of this oyster town, and was still burning today, although firemen from six communities had it under control after an all-night battle. Seven hundred people in the theater were led to safety without panic when the fire started.

Damage is estimated at about $750,000 and $1,000,000, and one person is in the hospital seriously injured. Two other persons known to have been in the burning area are unaccounted for. The town, of approximately 15,000, was in total darkness within a short time after the fire started, when the electric light plant was caught in the path of the wind-swept flames.

RECOVER BODIES OF 2 DROWNED IN RIVER

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., March 30.—(AP.)—The bodies of Howard Burns, 25, and his wife, of Point Pleasant, O., who drowned several weeks ago, were recovered from the Ohio River near Gallipolis, O., today. They were drowned when their boat capsized and was swept under a barge.

Among his later works were "Lazy Lobin," "Sweet William," "Puss in the Corner" and "Lord Dads." He also was the author of "The Chicot Papers," "Chicot in America" and "My Notley Life."

STRIKERS' WIVES TRY FOR MEN'S JOBS—FAIL

MARTINS FERRY, O., March 30.—Two wives of striking miners, wearing overalls, applied for work on a street improvement job here. They were refused.

Hears 'Husband,' But It's Robber She Calls

"Is that you, Tom?" called Mrs. Martha A. Kenny when she heard a person walking about on the first floor of her home at 922 Western avenue early this morning.

It wasn't "Tom." The visitor rushed to the rear as he heard the voice and left as he had entered—by a window.

"Tom," Mrs. Kenny's husband, was asleep in another room.

LINDY PLANS TO HOP ATLANTIC AGAIN IN SUMMER

AROUND WORLD FLIGHT AIM

(Copyright, 1928, by the United Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Col. Charles Lindbergh intends to try the trans-Atlantic hop again this summer, he has advised Army friends here.

He plans to visit most of the countries in Europe and then, if everything breaks well, continue on across Russia, China and Japan, returning across the Pacific.

The Flying Colonel's air voyage will be another "good-will" trip, according to his present plans he will not attempt to break any records.

Lindbergh has for several months discussed his contemplated flight with military friends and with his backers. He has received advice from many sources and now is seeking further reliable information as to flying conditions and the geography of the European countries he may visit.

The flight probably will start from Mitchel Field, N. Y., with the first leg of the journey ending somewhere in Germany.

Lindbergh is now on his way to San Diego, Cal., where a new Ryan monoplane is waiting for him. This ship, similar to the Spirit of St. Louis, in which he made his historic trip last May, was built especially for the journey this summer.

According to information available here, Lindbergh will spend three weeks or a month testing his new ship in Southern California. Then he intends to cross the country in easy stages, wait in New York for favorable flying weather and then begin his newest history-making cruise.

85TH BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR CIVIL WAR VET

HOPEDALE, O., March 30.—A birthday cake with 85 candles featured a dinner party given Cornelius Denny, Civil War veteran. The Sons of Union Veterans' Auxiliary gave the party for Denny.

RECOMMEND GREENWAY FOR AMBRIDGE CHURCH

AMBRIDGE, Pa., March 30.—The pulpit committee of the First Presbyterian Church has recommended the Rev. Frank L. Greenway to the congregation as pastor. The Rev. Mr. Greenway has held charges in Texas, Lancaster county, Pa., and Colorado.

POWHATAN, O., GIRL ONLY ELOPING—NOT KIDNAPED

POWHATAN, O., March 30.—The reported kidnaping of Barbara Vek, 20, proved to be an elopement. She was married to George Kefek, of Cresaps, W. Va., in Wellsburg, W. Va., after several friends had helped Kefek spirit Miss Vek from her home.

Only Two Finish Race

AINTREE, England, March 30.—(AP.)—Only two horses, one of them American bred, of the 42 starters in the historic Grand National finished today in one of the most sensational runnings of this classic event since its inauguration in 1839.

Tipperary Tim, owned by H. S. Kenyon and ridden by J. Dutton, an amateur, proved to have the stamina and luck to win. He was a 100-to-1 shot.

The great American favorite, Billy Barton, owned by Howard Bruce, of Baltimore, made a grand race of it, but lost his chance to become the first American-bred horse to win the historic chase by an unlucky fall at the very last fence.

He was remounted, however, by his Irish jockey, Cullinan, and finished the course, capturing second place.

The rest of the field, jockeys and horses were littered all over the gruelling ground.

Billy Barton was a 33-to-1 shot.

The distance was four miles, 856 yards.

Despite the fact that the odds against Billy Barton had been falling off before the race, he did nobly today and only lost to Tipperary Tim, an outsider, almost within a stone's throw of finishing first.

It was Billy's race all the way until he tripped on the last fence.

The Baltimore horse got away beautifully and took the course like a stag running for the fun of the sport. Burgoright, owned by B. L. Behr of Chicago, the only other American-bred horse in the race, clung to Billy until the first obstacle and then dropped back and at the second or third fence, Burgoright was out of it.

NEW STARS FEATURE Y. M. H. A. RING SHOW

A pair of knockouts and the introduction to local amateur ring fans of some new talent featured the amateur boxing show at the Y. M. H. A. last night. It was the fourth show of the season to be staged at the Y.

The Montabana brothers, John, a bantam, and Charles, a lightweight, were the best-looking boxers among the newcomers. John won over J. Beilen in three rounds and Charles defeated A. Conrad in three.

The summary:

112-pound class—Mose Dutch, Willow Club, won from William Smith, Kingsley House, by knockout, in two rounds.

114-pound class—John Montabana, Braddock Library A. C., won from Jack Bielen, North Side A. C.

116-pound class—Pete Zelesnick, McKeesport A. C., won from Pat Conley, Hazelwood A. C. Tom Anderson, Superior A. C., knocked out A. J. Polefka, McKeesport A. C.; Henry Still, Williams A. C., won from F. Kemper, Superior A. C.

121-pound class—Charles Montabana, Braddock Library, won from A. Conrad, McKeesport A. C.; F. Yates, Monaco, won from William Zurick, Pittsburgh.

168-pound class—A. Goodski, Springdale, Pa., won from A. Benner, Homestead Library A. C.

DUQUESNE LIGHT WINS C. & I. LEAGUE TITLE

The Duquesne Light team retained its title as C. & I. League champions when it defeated Pittsburgh and Lake Erie for the second time in a row, 43 to 25. The Light passers took the lead at the start and were never threatened.

AMATEUR STATUS OF GIRL CAGERS PROBED

KANSAS CITY, March 30.—(AP.)—Investigation of the amateur status of 16 girls' basketball teams competing in an invitational tournament at Wichita, Kan., has been started by Dr. J. A. MIELES OUT TO CLINCH P. & O. TITLE TONIGHT

The J. J. Mieles will be out to clinch the P. & O. League championship tonight when they meet the Sianos in the second game of their play-off series at Columbus Temple. The Mieles won the first contest, 28 to 20, and need only a victory tonight to end the series.

The Mieles won the first-half championship, while the Sianos led the field at the end of the second round.

The Lincoln Demolay team won the Demolay championship last night when it defeated the Duquesne chapter, 51 to 24, on the Trees gym floor.

The Windsiow Club won the first game of the Major League play-off last night when it defeated the McKeesport Alumni Club, 31 to 13. The second game will be played at McKeesport next Tuesday.

Zivic Go Victor's Prize

ABOUT with Jack ivic will be offered the winner of the battle between Rudy Ceder and Jack Katkish at Motor Square Garden, next Monday night, Matchmaker John L. Herron announced today.

The club has come to the conclusion that the fans like to see heavy punchers in action and if the return go between Ceder and Katkish is as torrid as their former meeting the fans will be demanding further activity for the victor, and no better foe could be asked than Zivic.

The fans are evincing a lot of interest in next Monday's show with its novel makeup of five bouts, two of them eight-rounders, two six-rounders and the opener a four-rounder. Jack McFarland and Joe Elrene will appear in the semi-final and Young Rudy and Sig Keppen in the main preliminary.

Johnny Ray has joined Red Mason and Cuddy DeMarco at Hot Springs, Ark. Red Chapman, the Boston featherweight, also is there.

Mike Dundee is matched with Joe Glick at Dayton, O., April 9.

Benny Ross meets Jim Williams, Andy Divodi boxes Jimmy Finley and Nick Testo battles Georgie (Kid) Lee in eight-round preliminaries to the Leo Lomski-Joe Sekyra 10-rounder in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight. Vinko Jakasa and Zvoinimir Matievich appear in the opening four-rounder, probably for no other reason than their names are so easy to spell.

Phil Goldstein is tentatively matched for a return bout with Mickey Chapin at Newark, N. J., and for a clash with Max Strub at Erie, April 13.

Kid Francis and Pete Firpo mix at Detroit tonight, with Sammy Dorfman boxing Patsy Ruffalo, Ward Sparks opposing Eddie O'Dowd and Joe Shurra, formerly of Pittsburgh, battling Carlo Mazzola in the preliminaries.

Phil McGraw meets Tommy Grogan at Omaha, Johnny Farr boxes Harry Blitman at Hollywood, Cal., and Midget Mike O'Dowd clashes with Tony Mandell at San Francisco and Frankie Genaro boxes Jackie Johnson at Toronto tonight.

Teddy Welch boxes Freddie Fitzgerald in a 10-round bout at Youngstown April 14.

The Syria Temple will stage a stag boxing show in Syria Mosque tonight.

Mickey O'Brien, a 178-30-pounder, late of the United States Marine Corps at Quantico, Va., is in town looking for bouts. His last battle was with Patsy Haley of Philadelphia at Wilmington, Del. Mickey also is a baseball player and expects to play shortstop for one of the leading league teams around here. Promoters may reach him by calling Valley 881-X.

Andy Tomosky and Young Nanci box in a six-round bout at Houston, Pa., tonight.

Jack Burke, Lawrenceville heavyweight, is requested to call Bernard Kelly, Jr., at McKeesport 32274 at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening.

LEADS LOCAL BOWLERS AT A. B. C.

L. G. Marone, manager of the alleys at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, not only recently rolled a perfect tenpin score, as shown on the score sheet he is holding above, but he also led the Pittsburgh delegation to the A. B. C. tournament at Kansas City, rolling into the money with a 605 total in the singles and a count of 1,779 in the all-events. His score of 621 was good enough to win the singles in the Votel brothers' tenpin tournament at East Pittsburgh a few weeks ago. He is one of the most consistent pin-topplers in the Pittsburgh district. Pictures show his bowling form.

DUCKPIN STAR

Robert (Tex) Rickard of Charleroi, who last week turned in a perfect score of 300 in duckpins rolling for Charleroi against Brownsville in a match in the Monongahela League on the Casper alleys, Brownsville. He rolled four strikes in the preceding game for a total of 16 in succession. He weighs only 125 pounds and releases the ball underhand. Twice before he has just missed perfect scores, falling down after rolling nine straight strikes. The night before he went over the top he rolled 257 at Charleroi. He will roll with the Casper alleys team in the American Duckpin Congress tournament on the Haus alleys, North Side, beginning April 9.

WALL ST. CLEANUP FOR TY

NEW YORK, March 30.—(AP.) — The Evening Post, in a special dispatch from Augusta, Ga., says today that Ty Cobb has decided to retire from baseball, following a reported cleanup of $200,000 in the stock market.

Inability to get back into playing shape after workouts with the Athletics also figured in Cobb's decision to quit, according to the Post, whose correspondent says his information comes from an unimpeachable source.

CLEANS UP IN STOCKS

"Cobb's legs could not stand the strain of another campaign and he was contemplating retirement when the market turned favorable for him and influenced his decision," the story says.

Cobb is reputed to have reaped an estimated profit of $200,000 in General Motors and Coca Cola during the unprecedented rise in the stock market within the last week.

Cobb ended last season with the Athletics fully determined he was through, but was persuaded to return this spring by Connie Mack. He joined the Athletics at Fort Myers, Florida, March 18, after working out for a short time with the Giants in his home town of Augusta.

LOSES HIS FORM

Several days ago when Cobb left the Athletics for Augusta Mack denied the Georgian was to quit. He said Cobb was called home by his wife's illness. Newspapermen who tried to reach him yesterday failed to do so.

Camp correspondents take the view that Cobb's decision to retire, if final, is based on a desire to keep from slipping too far down the trail. Experts who saw the Georgian in practice this spring expressed the opinion he had slowed down to such an extent that he would be unable to hold down a regular berth.

BOWLING and BILLIARDS

EDDIE VOTEL of East Pittsburgh, who recently returned from the A. B. C. tournament at Kansas City, reached his best form just about a week too late. Last Wednesday evening, in a regular match game in the Allegheny County Tenpin League, he scored one of the best sets of games ever rolled in this section, starting with 255, following with 235 and finishing with 246 for a total of 736 pins, high score for three games in the league this season.

It appears that the final match of the season, between Muck Brothers, of Braddock, and the Ko-Ko-Mo-Kids, of East Pittsburgh, will decide the championship team. This match is scheduled next Wednesday evening.

Miss Louise Boehm, of 4646 Friendship avenue, is being hailed as one of the leading women bowlers in Western Pennsylvania as a result of her brilliant showing with the St. Joseph's Social Club in a recent match with St. George's girls of Allentown. Miss Boehm turned in a fine score of 249 in one game and had a grand average of 176. The match was rolled on the St. Joseph Social alleys, Pearl street and Liberty avenue.

"Past, Present and Future of Duckpin Bowling" is the subject of a talk to be given by Raymond Arthur Turpen over WCAE at 10 o'clock tomorrow night. Turpen is a foremost figure in the bowling world. He is chairman of the board of directors of the American Duckpin Congress and president of the Ducks Publishing Company, publishers of the bowlers' journal, The Ducks.

CHAMPIONS LOSE, 7-5, IN FIRST BATTLE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—Another big league scene is listed for the edification of Los Angeles folks this afternoon. The clever Pirates and Cubs, all pepped up with mid-summer baseball madness, will stage the second clash of their interesting series at Wrigley Field.

Manager Donie Bush stated this morning he would send Joe Dawson and Fred Fussell to the mound in the second tussle. Skipper Joe McCarthy of the Cubs is expected to offer Pat Malone, the speed-ball king of the Minneapolis club of the American Association, who was purchased during the winter.

Played under ideal conditions and with about 10,000 partisan and bipartisan fans cheering and screaming, the first encounter of the National League champions and flag contenders was something to rave about. That's exactly what the native sons did. Seldom it is that Los Angeleans have an opportunity to partake of such a treat as was served them when the Pirates and Cubs met head-on.

The fighting Bears put over the winning wallop in the opener and they did it in a manner that was studded with championship action.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Paul Waner.

OF COURSE, it may be argued that it is of no significance what ball players of established and recognized ability do or fail to do during the spring training period, as it may be taken for granted, as a rule, that they will be found delivering the merchandise in their old style when the pennant race gets under way.

Yet it would relieve the minds of Pittsburgh fans to a considerable extent if Paul and Lloyd Waner would get going in their stride of last year for a period sufficiently long to show beyond doubt that they were giving all their attention to baseball and had forgotten all about theatrical work and the other side lines that they followed during the winter.

DURING the greater part of the spring conditioning labor, and in most of the practice games up until yesterday's struggle with the Cubs, in which young Lloyd smacked out four hits, the brothers who made the "Waner act" fa-

WHEN the committee in charge of a bowling tournament has 213 paidup team entries and the unpaid entry blanks of 257 more and the deadline for receiving the paid entries is less than 48 hours away, what's to be done about it?

Hilary Wertz, in charge of receiving the entries for the American Duckpin Congress tournament, which is to be rolled on the Haus alleys, North Side, beginning April 9, would like to know the answer and he has turned to the newspapers to urge the entrants who have not yet sent in their checks to lose no time in doing so, for they will not be permitted to roll unless they are paid up by midnight tomorrow. It has been customary here in the past for teams and individuals to enter tournaments and pay up when they came to roll. If they did not show up they lost nothing, but managed to disarrange the schedule.

WORK on the schedule for the A. B. C. event will be begun as soon as the entries close and the "mind" or promise entries will not be included. All that are not paid up when the zero hour arrives will be left off the list that goes to the printer.

So be warned, ye bowlers. If you ignore the last call and are left out in the cold it will be your own fault.

If all of the teams that have signified their intention of entering the tournament come under the wire the Congress' hope of having 500 teams in line for its opening National event will have been rea-

Death Reveals "Woman" Cue Champ Man

SAPULPA, Okla., March 30.—(AP.)—Death has revealed that Frances Anderson, known for many years as "champion woman billiard player," in reality was a man.

Anderson ended his own life here yesterday by slashing his throat and wrists with a razor. Not until the body was prepared for burial did the secret of 50 years of masquerading become known.

Crumpled in one of the woman's stockings he wore, was a letter indicating he had contemplated death and carrying a plea that his secret might be preserved.

"Do what you want with my body," the letter said, "but don't let the world know my secret."

Other than the information obtained from the clippings, authorities were unable to learn much about Anderson. He apparently had spent considerable time in Los Angeles. He was about 60 years old.

CHILLY SAUCE

BY CHILLY DOYLE
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—Hal Carlson, former Pirate pitcher, has gone to a local hospital for the purpose of getting an X-ray photograph. The Swede has been bothered with an ailment similar to pleurisy. It is not expected that he will be able to do anything before the opening of the season.

JOE McCARTHY has a whole flock of infielders, but at the present time it's a far cry between the class of the Pirate four-horsemen as compared with the Chicago infield. Only two of the eight infielders with the Chicago team can be classed as certainties. Grimm and English are sure shots, but the second and third positions are beclouded in doubt.

"MACGUIRE and McMillan are both good ball players," said Skipper Joe yesterday. "And don't overlook Ray Jacobs, whom we have just secured from the Los Angeles club."

McCARTHY seems to think that either MacGuire or McMillan will fill the second base hole, but he is not overlooking any bets. Jacobs is capable of playing three of the infield positions. Then there is Johnny Butler, late of the Dodgers, who is ready for any assignment on the inner defense. Butler has so much ability that other clubs, including the Pirates, were after him. It would not be doubtful if he were to be the regular third-sacker.

LOS ANGELES sports writers were all worked up over the clash of the Pirates and Cubs.

"I knew this was a big league town if the people had a chance to see some real big league stuff," exclaimed Mark Kelly, popular sports editor of the Los Angeles Examiner. And the Cubs and Pirates are in a mood to continue the show. The Pirates are especially anxious to trim the Bears as a result of the recent trade, and naturally the feeling is mutual so far as the Cubs are concerned.

Adams, Cuyler Duel in Detail

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—A duel between Sparky Adams, Pirates' second baseman, and Kiki Cuyler, Cubs' right fielder, principals in the Pittsburgh-Chicago trade last winter, is the big feature of the Pirates-Cubs series being played here. Here is what Adams and Cuyler did yesterday:

BATTING—Adams flied to Wilson in the first inning, singled to left in the third, grounded out to McMillan in the fifth, popped to Grimm in the seventh and forced Brickell in the eighth. Cuyler popped to Grantham in the first inning, doubled to right in the fourth, lined to Paul Waner in the sixth and singled through the pitcher's box in the seventh.

FIELDING—Adams took English's loft in the first inning, tosses out Grimm in the second, caught Grimm's fly in the fourth, threw out Stephenson and Yoter in the sixth and tosses out Webb and retired Stephenson at first in the seventh. Cuyler took Grantham's liner in the sixth inning and Comorosky's fly in the eighth.

HOMEWOOD-BRUSHTON FETE CARDED TONIGHT

Music, speaking and other entertainment and lunch and smokes will feature the second open meeting of the Homewood-Brushton Baseball Boosters' Committee, to be held in Odd Fellows Hall, 7711 Tioga street, Brushton, this evening.

Regis M. Welsh will be one of the speakers. Plans will be furthered for the promotion of the interests of the Homewood-Brushton club of the County League.

INDOOR GOLF COURSE TO TEST NEW PLAN

A system of reciprocation is being planned by the management of the East Liberty Indoor Links, 6119 Broad street, and the National Indoor Golf, Smithfield street, downtown, for the near future. A complimentary system may be installed whereby the East Liberty course will honor tickets sold by the downtown links, and vice versa. This is expected to make it more convenient for the indoor golf fan.

PICK LOMSKI OVER SEKYRA

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 30.—If Joe Sekyra, well advertised youngster from Dayton, actually has the spark of fistic genius in his system, he will have a grand chance to prove it when he steps out with Leo Lomski for 10 rounds in the Garden tonight.

There is a wide difference of opinion about Charley Cook's near heavyweight. Some folks think he is loaded up with class, while others can't see anything in him to rave about. In their eyes he is just another recruit to the army of commonplace pugs.

Set New Time for Departure of Soccerites

The arrangements for the departure of Heidelberg, Western Pennsylvania Olympic contenders, for St. Louis was changed again late last night. Last minute advices state that the team will travel from Union Depot tonight at 9:05 and players Matthews and Henderson should get aboard the train there.

The Heidelberg players will board the flyer at Carnegie at 9:15. Quite a reception has been planned for the local team by St. Louis officials upon their arrival in the Missouri town.

FREEMAN K. O.'S W. HARMON

CLEVELAND, March 30.—(AP.)—Tommy Freeman, Cleveland welterweight, knocked out Willie Harmon, New York, in the third round of their 12-round bout here last night.

Freeman, ranked fourth by Tex Rickard among the welterweights of the world, had out-roughed Harmon for the start. With the third round less than one minute old, Harmon came swinging in and caught one of Freeman's short fast right hooks squarely on the chin. Harmon dropped on his face and stayed there.

Goals Rule Beats Bucs

NEW YORK, March 30.—Although they were beaten by Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2, in the second first-round game for the American group title, the New York Rangers today boast the right to meet the Boston Bruins in the finals of the American sectional play for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the championship of the National Professional Hockey League. The Rangers copped the first game of the series Tuesday by a 4-0 score, and last night, managed to tally twice while the Pirates were desperately striving to overcome a four-goal handicap. The Pirates were thus eliminated by a six-goals-to-four tally.

After playing a whole game and two periods in somewhat lifeless fashion, the Pirates cut loose in the third period with a burst of speed and scoring ability similar to that which lifted them from the cellar to a play-off berth within a few weeks during the regular season play.

Roger Smith, substitute defense player, scored two goals, and Martin Burke, defense player, and Harold Darragh, right winger, one each for the Pirates. Taffy Abel, Ranger defense man, and Murray Murdock, substitute forward, tallied for New York.

During the first two periods the Rangers outshot the Pirates two to one, but in the final session Lorne Chabot, Ranger goalie, was under constant bombardment. In this period he saved 19 shots and allowed three to get by him. At the pace the Pirates were traveling at the finish, the Rangers' two-goal margin would not have been any too large if there had been another period to play.

The first game of the American group final between the Rangers and Boston will be played here Sunday night. The teams travelling to Boston for the second game Tuesday night. Total goals will determine which team will meet the winner of the Montreal Maroons-Canadiens series for the Canadian group title.

MAROONS TOP SENATORS

MONTREAL, March 30.—(AP.)—The Montreal Maroons last night won the right to face the Canadiens, of the same city, in the Canadian division finals for the Stanley cup, by defeating the world's champions Ottawa Senators, 2 to 1. The Maroons had won the first game of the two-game series with the Senators, 1 to 0, at Ottawa Tuesday night.

P. GOLDSTEIN, GANS DRAW

Two knockdowns, one for a count of nine and the other coming just before the bell, failed to bring California Joe Gans, Negro lightweight, a victory over Phil Goldstein of Lawrenceville and New York in the 10-round main bout at the Palisades Rink, McKeesport, last night.

The judges, Jock Simeo and Johnny Graff, disagreed at the conclusion of the bout and Referee Red Robinson called the contest a draw. Goldstein lost a $25 weight forfeit, coming in a pound over weight.

Gans, a counter puncher, showed up well against the rushing, mixing Goldstein. In the fourth round, Gans landed a right to the chin as Goldstein came bounding off the ro, and Philly took a count of nine. In the sixth the Negro caught Goldstein coming off the ropes and dropped Phil again, the count having reached one when the bell rang.

In the semi-final, Allen Beatty, Uniontown Negro welterweight, won the decision over Young Guido of Niles, O., in 6 rounds. Ken Hargraves, New Kensington, beat Terry McGivern, Chambersville, in six rounds. K. O. Ferry, McKeesport, won over Jimmy Duffy of New Kensington in the six-round opener.

THE women golfers of New York are a bit excited over their ranking list for the year, recently announced and placing Miss Glenna Collett in the top position with a plus 2 handicap. The next best rating is scratch and six players, Maureen Orcutt, Marion Hollins, Martha Parker, Marie Jenney, Emily Rockwood and Mrs. Courtland Smith, are grouped there. Now, what the great majority are asking is why Miss Collett, who is ranked in the Metropolitan district for the first time, should be rated two strokes better than Miss Orcutt, who not only has been the Metropolitan champion the last two years, but also was a finalist in the National championship last season.

It's a tough one to answer, at that, although Miss Collett merely was given the same rating that she enjoys in the Eastern handicap list when she was notched at plus 2 by the committee.

THE boxer who substituted on short notice and defeated Jim Sigman, former Navy heavyweight champion, in a bout at Akron Wednesday night was not Charley Brock, of Philadelphia, as sent out of Akron, but Charley Brodd of McKeesport, one of Mike Edison's boxers. Brodd was making his professional debut against Sigman. He was beaten by Leo Clements in the recent amateur tournament at McKeesport. Sigman floored him twice in the second round, but he came back fighting and went on to win the honors. Bernard Kelly, Jr., of McKeesport handled him.

SIG KEPPEN, who boxes Young Rudy in one of the bouts on the Motor Square card Monday night, is a Jewish lad. His father conducts a grocery store in Beaver Falls.

NEW LOOP PLANNED IN WESTMORELAND

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 30.—A new baseball league in Westmoreland county, to be known as the Sewickley Valley League, made up of six and possibly eight teams, will be organized at a meeting of representatives at Herminie next Tuesday evening. The new league so far has lined up Herminie No. 1, Herminie No. 2, Keystone Shaft, Hahntown, Lowber and Rillton.

Efforts are being made to have West Newton and possibly Yukon join the circuit, which will play out a regular summer schedule.

SHANNOPIN HONORS RETIRING PRESIDENT

More than 200 members of the Shannopin Country Club turned out last night for the testimonial banquet held in honor of John I. Thompson, who declined re-election after serving as president of the club since 1919.

James F. Bunting served as toastmaster and introduced as speakers H. B. Bust, Hon. James H. Gray, D. J. Brown, L. A. Hubach and W. G. Syster. The retiring president was presented with a handsome clock.

GENE HIRES SELF PUBLICITY CHIEF

NEW YORK, March 30.—Gene Tunney has taken unto himself a public relations man in the person of Steve Hannigan, high-powered publicity man of auto racing, speed boat racing, Florida resorts, and what not. It will be the duty of Hannigan, who arrived here today, to see that the public doesn't misunderstand Gene any longer.

CUBS DOWN BUCS

son of the thrilling exploits of Hack Wilson and Kiki Cuyler, were able to overtake and defeat the snappy Bushwhackers. The score was 7 to 5.

The clash was an "exhibition" in name only. The spirit was so tense that an argument could have started any time. The crowd seemed to have a deep sense of the rivalry among the players as a result of the Cuyler-Adams deal, for the spectators whooped "er" up. It was quite striking to see the fans arising to stretch as naturally as if they were watching a tilt that carried more significance.

The colorful players were cheered to the echo, Cuyler getting a series of receptions. Whenever the former Pirate came to the plate the fans in all parts of the fields acted up much like they do in the big show. Sparky Adams also was showered with acclaim, as was Wilson, who stole the show and turned victory into defeat for the Buccos.

All Wilson did was to drive in five tallies and score a fifth. An error was charged to Paul Waner as Cuyler rode over from first when Wilson doubled in the seventh, but Hack's blow was the big thing in the two tallies of this round, and he made his winning hit after two were out. The two counters gave the Cubs the contest.

The pace set by the Waner kids was something that would have discouraged a ball club that did not have pronounced fighting spirit. Lloyd connected for four blows, including two doubles, and Brother Paul paddled Sprout over two consecutive times. In the early innings it looked like the fans were in to see a one-sided affair, but when Wilson began to strut his stuff it was curtains for the boys of his home district.

The youthful Mr. Comorosky of the hard-coal district made a beautiful hole-in-one in the fourth inning when he dropped a fine homer into the right-field seats. This sock stood as the big item of the afternoon for just about 10 minutes. At the end of that interval, the enthusiastic Mr. Wilson of Martinsburg found a longer range than Adam and his four-socker was a three-in-one affair. Commy was leading off when he cracked his homer up among the rooters.

KREMER HURLS WELL

Kremer and Guy Bush were on the firing line at the start of the fracas. Sprout smeared the first pitch of the game for a single and later in the inning Brother Paul and Buckshot Wright found safe spots for their wallops and two runs were accredited to Pirates. The Waner act was augmented by Sparky in the third for a third tally and Comorosky hit for the full distance in the fourth.

Meantime, Kremer was disposing of the Cubs in a masterly way. He walked McMillan, however, at the start of the fourth and Cuyler whacked a fine double to right-center. Up came Hackenschmidt Wilson and overpowered the ball with his fearful cudgel. Hack forced a deadlock in the sixth after he had walked. Wilson eventually scored on a single by Miguel Gonzales.

Grimes went to the mound in the fifth and Burleigh was operating when the tying tally went over. The spitball star took personal charge of getting his Cubs in the lead by hitting a two-sacker at the start of the seventh. Lloyd Waner beat out a hit, and Grimes scored on Paul's sacrifice drive. But the Cubs made two in their half and added another for good measure in the eighth. Weinert worked the last two frames for the Bears.

Well Hacked!

SPORT COMMENT -:- By James J. Long

mous throughout the country last year have performed in lusterless fashion. They had not approached their normal form in either hitting or fielding.

At times Lloyd showed the improved base-stealing form that had been expected as a result of the special coaching given to him in that department by Manager Bush, but he hasn't been getting on often enough to do any vast amount of this stealing.

All well enough and nothing to worry about, if due to slow starting, but in the present instance some coast reports intimate that the heads of Paul and Lloyd, instead of being occupied only by baseball thoughts at this time of year, are still full of notions about vaudeville and other theatrical engagements.

THE Waners continued their winter vaudeville activities right up to the time the Pirates arrived in California in February, and if it is true that they are still suffering from the effects of the "stage bug" and are already speculating on what engagements and salaries they can command for next season it would be well for them to call a halt on it right now and give their undivided attention to baseball.

Lloyd Waner.

They owe it to President Dreyfuss and Manager Bush, and they owe it to the fans.

They (en owe it to themselves, too, for they have got to bear in mind that if it had not been for baseball they never would have gained the prominence that enabled them to get fat contracts in vaudeville.

They were not hired because they were actors, but because they had big baseball names that would draw at the box office.

THEY have got to play much better ball than they have produced this spring to keep their names "big" in baseball. If they don't, they will not find any theatrical agents knocking at their doors next fall.

In short, their vaudeville chances will depend upon the kind of ball they play, and it is their part to forget all about the stage stuff for a little more than six months, and "bear down" on baseball. As soon as any ball player begins to let his mind linger too long on side sources of revenue that look easy, he begins to lose in value as a diamond asset.

At any rate, Pittsburgh fans will resume the hope that the brilliant pair will continue the fine work started yesterday by Lloyd Waner, and snap into the same ruthless spirit of play that characterized their work last year.

EVEN though the local indoor boxing season has only a short time to run, the Queensberry devotees of this region may be given a chance to see Jack Delaney in action against another good light-heavyweight or heavyweight.

Jack Delaney.

At least such an attraction is being considered by Manager John L. Hernon of Motor Square Garden in connection with his plans for the remainder of the season.

Only one more show after that of next Monday is to be staged in the East End arena before the curtain is lowered for the summer as far as boxing is concerned. That show will be held on Monday, April 16, following a shut-down for Easter Monday, April 9. Manager Hernon's first efforts are being directed toward matching Jack Zivic and Jack Katkish, former stablemates, but if he fails in that direction he will endeavor to sign Delaney to meet a worthy opponent here.

THE Motor Square manager (and also matchmaker at present) has one other attractive number under consideration, and if he fails to land the Zivic-Katkish or the Delaney match he will try to sign Pete Latzo, former welterweight champion, to meet Maxie Rosenbloom.

In any event, fans of the Pittsburgh district appear to be assured of seeing a card of unusual attractiveness in the final indoor glove show at Motor Square two weeks from next Monday.

HOW would you like to go back over the road to yesteryear and take another look at a six-day walk?

Well, you may have the opportunity within the next two months.

The decision of the Motor Square Garden management to close its boxing season on April 16, does not apply to any other sports or attractions of any nature that are generally offered there.

It is planned to put on sport shows of attractive kinds during the summer, and one of the first that is being considered is a six-day go-as-please footrace. It will be put on during May if it is arranged.

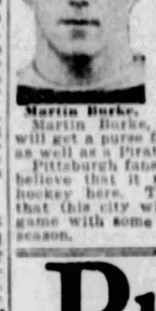
THAT will be like turning back the pages of sport history in this city, for it has been nearly three decades since the last six-day race of that kind was offered here.

It was put on by an out-of-town promoter, Billy Moore of Philadelphia, in Old City Hall, who had traveled around a circuit staging such races and carrying the leading walkers of the country with him. In each town visited, the best local walkers were invited to enter and compete with the circuit contestants, cash prizes being offered to the leading men at the finish.

Pete Latzo.

The leading pedestrians of the country were included among the competitors in that last six-day race in Pittsburgh, such as Pat Cavanaugh, then champion, and Notremic (his proper name, Cameron, spelled backward). In addition, Old Soldier Harnes and other walkers of this section competed.

PITTSBURGH will says goodby to its hockey team today. Returning from New York, where they were eliminated from the play-offs by the Rangers last night, the Pirates will pack their traps and scatter toward their homes in Canada, most of them making the trip by automobile. Only Herb Drury, who has made his home here for several years, and one or two others who will be delayed by business matters, will remain here after tonight.



Martin Burke.

Martin Burke, it is understood, will get a purse from Les Canadiens, as well as a Pirate share.

Pittsburgh fans are not willing to believe that it means the end of hockey here. They are confident that this city will be back in the game with some sort of team next season.

Suominen Sets Pace

MORIARTY, N. M., March 30.—Thirty-five miles over rolling hummocks of sand, dotted with pioneer efforts at dry farming, C. C. Pyle's caravan of callouses today bent their steps towards Palma, the lone water hole in their lap.

Arne Suominen, Detroit doctor, led the van through the Seven Springs-Moriarty trek of 29.5 miles, covering the distance in four hours and sixteen minutes. His elapsed time for the 921.5 miles is 154:32:05.

Earl Lynn Dilks, New Castle, Pa., provided with a trainer by enterprising citizens of his home community, was second into Moriarty last night, traversing the 29.5 miles in 4:25:30. His elapsed time for 921.5 miles from Los Angeles is 195:52:02, seventeenth in the race.

As the days in the desert draw near an end, the 94 runners and walkers remaining in the grind continue to develop a spirit of determination that is not to be denied.

The steady progress of Voight Hofstater, Manistee, Mich., in retaining fifth place despite an infected sole, brought on by a stone bruise, has been the outstanding physical feat of the past 10 days. Surgeons in attendance have removed the infection and the plucky "Flying Dutchman" strikes a regular stride that holds his own with the leaders.

Dull—Unfit

Watch a sparkling drink change things in an hour

Often men and women rise in the morning feeling dull and unfit because the system is clogged. The poisons and wastes depress them.

There are long ways and short ways to a remedy, but the shortest and pleasantest is this:

Drink a glass of water on rising, either hot or cold. Add a little "Epsonade." It will make a sparkling, pleasant drink, that will flush the intestines. Note the radical change in an hour.

The results come from acids derived from lemon and grapes. And they are at your command every hour of the day.

Learn what "Epsonade" means to you. How soon it can change conditions. It may save you countless hours of depression. All druggists supply "Epsonade" at small cost.

Cigarettes,* James Montgomery Flagg selects OLD GOLD

Photograph of JAMES MONTGOMERY FLAGG, taken in his studio—while test was being made.

After this test, Mr. Flagg wrote:

"Most of us smoke names and think we are smoking cigarettes! The blindfold test proved that to me. It proved also that it is difficult to tell one cigarette from another . . . except in the case of OLD GOLD. I spotted that . . . it suited me best even blindfolded. In fact, the man who said 'not a cough in a carload' knew whereof he spoke . . . It's the smoothness that identifies OLD GOLD. It needs no other trade mark."

How Test Was Made

Subject was blindfolded, and, in the presence of two responsible witnesses, was given one each of the four leading cigarettes to smoke . . . To clear the taste . . . coffee was served before each cigarette.

Mr. Flagg was entirely unaware of the identity of these cigarettes during test. After smoking the four cigarettes, Mr. Flagg was asked to designate by number his choice . . . He promptly replied, "Number 2," which was OLD GOLD.

BUGS BAER Says

THE tempest in the Teapot continues to boil its frothy oil over just and unjust alike.

Among the geysers of America, Teapot Dome is known as Old Unfaithful.

It is living up to its name by leaking from its government reservation into private wells.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

Tests made with colored dyes indicate that the neighbors' children are pumping the Teapot dry.

This is a better graft than catching the overflow from the First National Bank. We don't know what the government can do about it as there is no law which can prevent a man from sniffing the free aroma from a cooking school or a bakery.

You can now buy gasoline to match your complexion or your instalments. The dyes used were red, white and blue. The government is patriotic even when it is being cheated.

Any man who has blue gasoline in his pocket lighter is qualified as an accessory to the fact and will have to share his bathtub with a Burns detective.

From now on our favorite musical instrument is the dictaphone. All the crooked pulling in this world isn't being done by corkscrews.

So far as America is concerned, the tub of Diogenes is in the garage for repairs.

We refuse to vote for any candidate in November until we investigate. Then our choice goes to the man who got the most time off for good behavior.

Helen—"She says she has hazel eyes."

Maudie—"Yes, I thought she looked nutty."

Limited Proficiency

Mollie: "I've taken three lessons in French from a correspondence school."

Dollie: "Really? Could you carry on conversation with a Frenchman?"

"Oh, no; but I could talk to anybody else who'd had three lessons."

The Judge's Privilege

It was the young counsel's first case in court, and he was very nervous.

"My lord," he began, "I appear in this matter to—er—to—er—"

"Yes, yes," interrupted the judge, "but it's not your business to err, Mr. Smith. That is my privilege."

Not Moving

Bore (listening to gramophone record): "Awfully good one, that. What is it?"

Girl: "'Show me the way to go home.' I hoped it would appeal to you."

Destroying Vote Records Is Ground for Suspicion

The United States Senate sent its sergeant-at-arms here to obtain records of the number of ballots delivered to each election district in the general election of 1926. Previously the Senate had impounded ballot boxes used in Allegheny county.

The Senate sergeant-at-arms was informed the records he sought had been destroyed.

In the digest of election laws, Chapter seven, Section 15, page 750, Pennsylvania Manual, appears the following:

"A record of the number of ballots printed and furnished to each voting place shall be kept and preserved by the county commissioners of the several counties .. .. .P. L. 1893."

Under what authority were the records sought by the Senate of the United States destroyed? The answer to that question is up to the county commissioners, charged by the law with responsibility for preservation of the records.

A pertinent observation was that made by Commissioner McGovern that the destruction of the records at a time when it was known the Senate was making an investigation was "an imposition."

A county employe retorted that it also was an imposition to keep records when room was needed.

What for? Surely room must be provided to care for what the law states must be preserved. That is, if the county commissioners are not above the law. Can they permit to pass lightly this infraction of the law by a county employe?

Especially, as Commissioner Armstrong is said to have commented:

"You know we're all on trial now; the suspicion is that the extra ballots were marked and used."

A good way to prevent suspicion is to see that laws are obeyed.

A Powerful Machine

With This, Men Can Do ANYTHING

A VOTING MACHINE IN USE

This is the most powerful machine in the world, it registers the will of men.

If men and women of the country would use this machine intelligently, THINKING AS THEY VOTE instead of following like sheep behind a leader, or party, progress would be rapid, and selfish exploitation would be diminished.

But with the voting machine as with every other machine, you must KNOW HOW TO USE IT, and you must WANT TO USE IT.

Pennsylvanians—Pittsburghers—this year will have the chance to say by their votes whether or not THEY WANT IT.

With this machine, if men don't like a law they can change it.

This machine could wipe out prohibition tomorrow if men wanted to do away with it, or this machine could make prohibition more stringent and actually effective. It could punish the bootlegger with death, and put the bootlegger's customer in jail for twenty years.

The last item would cut down the bootleg trade seriously.

But not more than half of those that have the right to vote in the United States ACTUALLY DO VOTE.

In other words, fifty out of every hundred Americans don't much care what is done in government. THEY have enough. Therefore, they don't worry about the others.

Or if they are dissatisfied, they don't think it worth while to take an intelligent interest in public affairs and try to make conditions better.

The above shows the most powerful machine in the world, and it reminds you of Niagara Falls in the days before electric power was harnessed.

Niagara Falls was a great power, but it didn't do any good except for sightseeing.

This machine is the world's greatest power. But it does comparatively little good, because the people haven't the brains or will to use it. Half of them don't vote at all. The other half vote as a rule without knowing exactly what they are voting for, or WHY.

"IT WON'T BE LONG NOW"

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

The Boy Scouts

THE Boy Scouts of America are going to hold their eighteenth annual meeting and convention at San Francisco this spring. It is their first visit as an organization to the Pacific slope. They will find it golden in more senses than that which made the eyes of the grandfathers of some of them sparkle in the days of "Forty-Nine."

The Boy Scouts are representative of the American idea of America. They could give a good answer, if any were needed, to the "debunkers" of our early history, who, rightly or wrongly, are accused of decrying patriotism. The training of the Boy Scout on his marches and in his camps is, in many ways, like that of the soldier. This same training also resembles that of the engineer and the geodesic surveyor—than which nothing in human life is more romantic or more manfully practical. If Jules Verne were writing his romances of earth and sea and moon today he would surely find good material for heroes to his liking in this organization.

The Boy Scout is systematically taught not only love of nature, but some comprehension of her works and laws. Such teaching is a hundred-fold more important now than ever before, because a hundred times more people now see something of the country, thanks to the universality of the space-devouring auto.

Boy Scout life is, of necessity, outdoor life. He lives in close companionship with woods, and fields, and rivers, and lakes, and hills and mountains. One of the most important books in his library should be Fremont's "Narrative" of explorations in the Rocky Mountains and the Far West, away back in the forties of the last century; and another should be the narrative of the still earlier Lewis and Clark expedition across the continent; and a third, Washington Irving's fascinating story of "Astoria."

The Boy Scouts have to learn to do what all explorers and pathfinders are under necessity of doing, viz: To look out for themselves, to know their whereabouts, and to know how to meet and overcome all sorts of physical difficulties and obstacles. What can better become a man than such acquirements? How pitiful appear the accomplishments that mere fashionable society can offer in their stead! But this, of course, does not mean that the Boy Scout does not, or should not, receive the training belonging to good manners. So far from that, he is taught, as West Pointers and Annapolis men are, to be a gentleman in conduct and thought, and to have a high sense of honor. He is taught to revere God.

Personally, one of the most pleasing features that I find in the instruction given to the Boy Scout, is the acquaintance that is afforded him with the starry heavens. He is not long in learning to find his way through an unknown region by consulting the wonderful clock and map displayed over his head. Such words as longitude and latitude quickly come to have a live meaning for him, although to many graduates of schools they remain mere words all their lives. Nature can never be clearly understood from descriptions in books, nor from experiments in laboratories, either. She must be met face to face—thus only can her fascination be felt and her deepest meanings be comprehended.

• • •

Boy Scout life would be worth while if for no other reason than that it helps to counteract the increasing tendency of city life to shut people away, body and mind, from country sights, sounds and influences. The simple fact that it is all but impossible to see the universe from city streets and squares is condemnatory. The more compact a city and the more brilliant its nightly illumination, the more narrowly its inhabitants are confined to purely earthly things. A worse than "Heaviside layer" shuts them in with an impenetrable canopy of localism, through which no thought can pass outward and no inspiration can enter from the supernal spaces beyond.

Perhaps You're Lucky

THE arrival of your tax blank set you thinking against taxation.

Perhaps it started a feeling against the system which Uncle Sam employs to take so much from your income.

But many thousands of persons would be glad to pay your tax for the sake of having your income.

This particular plan of raising money for government expenses may or may not be the best and most equitable plan.

But income tax is in force, therefore you should not be rebellious.

Probably you can think back to the time when you believed that if you ever reached your present income you would be a happy and contented person.

You would have said then that the matter of tax would not bother you.

Many of your friends have not reached the point where they have to pay much income tax.

Should you not consider yourself lucky that you are not as poor as they, when they have worked as hard as you?

Love's Way

MEN tell us that the world is cold,
Their sighs, perhaps, estrange it;
The world is very wise and old,
How can we hope to change it?

The world has mocked young lovers' sighs,
Men say, since the beginning;
And yet, a something in your eyes
Still stirs my hope of winning.

Since Eden it has been love's way
To jeer the world, to flout it,
As in your eyes elves laugh today:
"We'll manage, Dear, without it!"

Tales that are Told

Asking for It

AT A time when a well-known English actor was making a big hit in town, an equally well-known American actor happened to be passing the theater and paused to look at the pictures of the English actor and his company that adorned the entrance.

Near the pictures was a board covered with newspaper criticisms of the show. When the American actor (we will call him Smith) had moodily read to the bottom of the list, he turned to a young fellow who had been watching out of the corner of his eye.

"Say," he asked, "have you seen this show?"

"Yes," replied the young man.

"How is this Brown—is he any good?"

"Any good!" repeated the man, pityingly. "Why, he's the best in the business. He's a scream! Don't believe an audience ever laughed so much before."

"Is he as good as Smith?" the other ventured, hopefully.

"As good as Smith!" The young man's scorn was superb. "Why, they're not in the same class. Brown's funny! A man with feeling can't compare them. I'm sorry you asked me, I feel so strongly about it!"

The American looked at him sternly, and then, in hollow tones, said: "I'm Smith."

"I know you are," said the young fellow, cheerily, "and I'm Brown."—London Tit-Bits

"HI, MISTER, caller the driver of a huge dray, "will you please hold my horse's head while I get down?"

The pedestrian hesitated.

"Well, I'll do my best," he observed, approaching gingerly, "though I don't know much about horses. Er—which one shall I hold?"

"The off 'un," replied the driver.

"Dear me, poor thing," exclaimed the pedestrian. "Do you mean this sad-looking one?"

"No, I don't," cried the driver, "I said the off 'un, didn't I?"

"Yes, I know you did," replied the pedestrian, testily, "but as I wasn't at his parent's funeral, how the dickens am I to guess which is the orphan?"

His Worldly Wealth

IT WAS an extremely fashionable wedding. The bridegroom had no visible means of support save his proud and wealthy father.

Crowds thronged the church, whilst a goodly company of people waited outside to see the happy pair leave the church.

When the service reached the stage where the bridegroom has to repeat the lines: "With all my worldly goods I thee endow," a stir ran through the crowded nave as the bridegroom's father was heard to exclaim: "Christopher! There goes his car!"

Not What He Meant

"PERKINS," thundered the farmer to his new assistant, "I told you to get an answer to that letter I instructed you to deliver!"

"Well, sir, they just wouldn't give me one. I did the best I could."

"Did the best you could, eh? Well, that was a pretty idiotic effort. If I had known a fool was going I'd have gone myself!"

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, March 30.—Thoughts while strolling: Mothers looking as young as their daughters. But no one seems able to do much for Dad. Morris Aleshire, art director of Liberty and a Gallipolis (O.) boy who made good in the city. Whatever became of Rube Marquard?

Triple-decker sandwiches. There's a busman's holiday—a uniformed chauffeur riding in a taxi. Those straw blondes from Hollywood. Helen Morgan's marvelous hands. Oscar Hammerstein II would make a good fullback. Green leaves come to the thickets tra la.

Boys from the country. And boys from the country club. Not so many professional Argentine dancers any more. Wonder what percentage of pedestrians stop to look at public statues. The haughty expression of a chow dog. More glove-slapping-take-that-you-cad melodramas.

The Hotel Cadillac, the site of Eugene O'Neill's birth. And around the corner the scene of New York's most famous murder. A taxi driver sneers at an old woman: "Lady, you gave me a nickel too much." We ought to stop tipping them altogether. The insolence grows daily.

A mounted policeman's horse follows as he walks around the corner. That English stage butler who is always in demand and spends his time in the art galleries. Beatrice Lillie and her husband, Lord Peal. A window of piping bullfinches—$50 each. They whistle tunes.

The old Fifth avenue hotel barber who grew rich off royalties of a shaving lotion. Flappers with perky chrystal bouquets. The mumbling woman who carries a lighted red lantern. And picks up pins and strings. A wait-on-yourself hat store.

Judith Anderson, one of the season's theatrical toasts. Those corner kitchens with stool counters, open ranges and good-natured waiters. Upstairs dance studios. Song publishers' tryout rooms. Nut shops. Waffle parlors. Three little girls in green hats all full of giggles.

There are indications the old-time high-class boarding house may return to fresh popularity. Indeed, become a vogue. There are three now occupying fine old homes in the East Fifties—abandoned mansions of millionaires. They are outfitted in magnificent style and the clientele is restricted to those who can give only highest social and financial references. The meals are home cooked and served in the elegant course manner of households in the neighborhoods. Lodgers are expected to come to the evening meal in dinner clothes and afterward there are piano or violin concerts with coffee in the drawing room. Prices for couples range from $150 to $300 a week.

The return of the boarding houses would indicate a revival of much rich romantic stuff New York lost in their passing. There were boarding house types as there are Broadway, Bronx and Harlem types. O. Henry found fruity material for a fertile pen among them.

Quick Work

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Harry B. Hopkins attempted to hold up an oil station attendant one morning in Detroit.

The attendant grappled with him and eventually turned him over to the police.

The criminal was taken to court and identified by the attendant and by two other station keepers. All three swore that Hopkins was the man who had forced them to hand over money at the point of a gun.

He was sentenced for a term of from 15 to 20 years in the state prison at Jackson by Judge Sample within three hours after his attempted holdup.

This item should have been put on the front page of all newspapers.

Occasionally our courts do function and justice is meted out swiftly.

And it is expeditious and untechnical justice that registers.

We do not need any great punishment of prisoners, we do not need to flog them or give them solitary confinement, or hang them, or otherwise hurt them. This only imbrutes them and does no good except to satisfy our vengeance.

What they need is swift justice. Every lawyer calls himself an officer of the court, whether for the prosecution or defense, and he ought to assist that court in quickly arriving at his decision.

Every criminal strives to delay the judiciary proceedings.

It is the delay and the pettifogging lawyers that he counts upon.

Much time and money was spent in the case of Hickman, the California murderer, when everybody knew he was guilty and he himself had confessed it.

This case in Detroit should be a shining example for all other courts.

What the criminal fears is not brutal punishment, but quick punishment.

The object of any judicial punishment is two-fold: to correct the prisoner and to protect society. Certainly, more prisoners would be deterred from wrong doing by quick punishment and, in the former case, quick punishment would be much more liable to improve the criminal than excessive punishment, which would only imbrute him and turn him out of prison a worse menace to society than before.

We have got past the time when in civilized countries we torture prisoners. All punishment that is brutal and hideous only debauches the public mind.

Let justice be swift and sure and its aims would be subserved.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD.

MISS KATHERINE LARKIN teaches modern art to the incorigible boys in the House of Refuge, on Randall's Island, New York. She says her 400 bad boys, between the ages of 9 and 21, turn out much more interesting work than good boys from fine homes.

"They have more imagination and more initiative," says the teacher. Their art work was exhibited in New York recently and was remarkable.

A poor little girl attending school in the Bronx, New York, looked cold when she came to school. The teacher had a fur coat she had outgrown and which she was saving for just such an emergency. She kept the child after school, took the child home with her and gave her the coat.

Next day the child came in her thin wrap, shivering again.

Calling her aside so that she wouldn't embarrass her, the teacher asked where her fur coat was.

"Well," said the child, about whose future no one need worry. "My sister works in a factory and she looked swell in the coat, so I rented it to her for 7 cents a day."

Dr. Effa Davis, a Chicago physician, said that the reason the human race is deteriorating, is that it eats too much chocolate and meat sandwiches, and that it would be better mentally and morally if it abstained from intoxicating drinks, certain kinds of music and close dancing.

Women teachers at Columbia University say that if children cannot do their arithmetic problems, they invariably get the right answer if you ask them in terms of dogs. Seven and nine do not mean anything, but 7 dogs and 9 dogs mean happiness and the children can figure out the answer pronto.

A Chicago couple on the verge of divorce, recently went to Judge William N. Gemmill for advice. The husband said his wife smoked a cigar and he was through with her. The wife said she smoked it on a bet and no men were present. Judge Gemmill chewed the end of his pencil and smiled reminiscently.

"Why my old grandmother used to smoke a pipe," he told them, "and she smoked and smoked, and nobody ever tried to stop her. She was a grand old lady."

He reconciled them.

A royal commission on divorce was appointed in England and two women members of the commission were in favor of changing the law to hold the sexes equally responsible. In England a wife cannot get a divorce because her husband is unfaithful. The English say that since the man cannot bring an illegitimate heir to the home, it doesn't matter what his behavior is, outside his home.

America is the only country on earth where the double standard of morals is not recognized in the matter of divorce.
